WE NOMINATE

Joseph Clifton Elgin, Princeton University's hard-driving and yet soft-spoken "Dean of Engineering," who in the summer of 1962—nine decades after the College of New Jersey announced the founding of the Green School of Science—is responsible for the continuing development of an approach to engineering more akin to pure science than to routine calculations of stresses and strains. As the University's engineering divisions (now the School of Engineering and Applied Science) move down William Street, department-by-department and ton-by-ton, it becomes apparent that the $8-million quadrangle on what was once University Field symbolizes a new era in education in this country.

This 58-year old native of Tennessee, an able chemical engineer, consultant to governmental scientific agencies and a dedicated Princetonian since 1929, has long been in the forefront of those strongly advocating the abandonment of the rigid lines of demarcation separating one department of engineering from the next. Even before World War II, in his early years as chairman of the Department of Chemical Engineering, Elgin insisted that education for engineering must be based on the science of engineering in contrast to specialized technologies and narrow skills and that it must emphasize the humanities and social sciences as integral parts of the engineer's total experience.

The Elgin-directed school, now absorbing the additional tens of thousands of square feet made available by the completion of the six-unit quadrangle, bears small resemblance to the educational entity Elgin "inherited" in 1951. With a present-day enrollment of 725, including some 220 graduate students, and a full-time faculty and research staff numbering approximately 125, the School over the past decade has incorporated in its framework of instruction and research a dozen new areas ranging from the computer sciences and applied nuclear science to plasma physics and programs in applied solid state and material sciences.

The out-reach of Elgin and his associates, which has merited the support of both the Ford and Sloan Foundations, is reflected in such undertakings as the pioneering interdepartmental program in plasma physics (i.e., hot ionized gases) and the newly established Computing Center. The latter, representing a 2-year analysis by a faculty committee and utilizing a system of "satellite stations," will fill a role analagous to that of a university library in that its services will be readily available to every division of the University—the social and natural sciences as well as the humanities and engineering.

A full professor for almost a quarter-century and closely identified with the evolution of programs beamed at the development of engineering faculties in the United States and Canada, Elgin throughout World War II filled key positions in such organizations as the National Defense Research Committee, the War Production Board and the Manhattan Project. Down through the years, in addition to extending his professional interests into a half-dozen fields and frequently writing for scientific journals, he has given unstintingly of his time to Trinity Episcopal Church as well as to the Episcopal Church's Procter Foundation, the Princeton University Press and Princeton Country Day School.

For his conception of a School of Engineering capable of probing deeper and deeper into regions lying between engineering and the realms of pure science; for his concern for the Princeton community as a center whose basic industries are instruction and research; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

WE GOT IT ALL AT ONCE

A Month's Rain in 24 Hours. From June 26 to July 23, the Princeton area recorded less than half an inch of rainfall, New Jersey, said its Secretary of Agriculture Philip J. Alampi, was experiencing "its worst drought in several generations."

On Monday of this week four separate cloudbursts ended the long dry spell—one of them (between 3 and 3:35 p.m.) producing 1.43 inches of rain. The day's total take: 3.12 inches, almost as much as is measured during a normal 30-day period.

Here in Princeton, the rain was twice accompanied by a severe electrical storm and, at night, by sufficient wind to topple a large tree on the University campus. Elsewhere in central New Jersey, the gusts were far stronger, damaging homes in some areas, causing power failures and, at Monmouth Park, blowing a jockey right off his horse.

The long-needed moisture returned a degree of greenness to lawns, but some forms of crops which mean a farmer's livelihood were beyond recall. The volume of rain was far too much in too short a time to do a great deal of good, although all those most directly concerned agreed that the heavy precipitation was a "real blessing."

This included the Princeton Water Co., which reported through its secretary-treasurer, Walter B. Jefferson, Jr., that the level of the wells would be checked daily to determine how much benefit will actually accrue from the 3.12 inches. "There was," Mr. Jefferson remarked a bit wistfully, "an awful lot of run-off that went right into the lakes and the rivers and not into the ground. We'll have to keep the sprinkling schedule in effect until further notice.

Whatever else Princetonians were doing on Monday, they weren't using much water. Mr. Jefferson reported that consumption dropped all the way to 1.7 million gallons—sharp in contrast to the summertime normal of 2.6 million and only about half of what was pumped on a hot, dry day before curtailed water use was ordered.

WHICH COMES FIRST?

Catcher Or the Pound? The dog control officer ordinance proposed by Township Committeeman Thomas P. Cook was talked down and tabled Monday evening.

Committeeman John S. Mount, who opposed the ordinance in the first place on the grounds "where're you going to put the dogs when he catches them?" picked up vehement support from Committeeman Maurice F. Healy, Jr.

"We have an ordinance on the books right now which could do with a little enforcing," said Mr. Cook.

"What means do we have to pay for all this?" asked Mr. Healy. "We are creating a new burden on the taxpayer by not increasing the amount of the license fee. What is the dog officer going to do with the dogs he picks up under this present ordinance?"

Administrator Joseph Nini explained that the dogs would be left at Dr. Russell S. Edmonds' place. The veterinarian would hand over the dogs to the Small Animal Rescue League. The dog owner would pay costs at the Rescue League.

A Question of Fees. "I don't think we should require owners to pay fees set by a private organization," objected Mr. Healy. Gordon Griffin, Township attorney, added that the amount of compensation should be fixed by ordinance.

In response to questioning from Committeemen Mount and Healy, Mr. Nini said that the Township has about $6,000 in the dog license account. The questioners commented that a dog control officer's equipment, such as a special truck, would quickly eat up the $6,000.

Mr. Mount added that Dr. Edmonds' kennels are now at capacity. A survey by the Small Animal Rescue League reveals, he said, that it is difficult or impossible to find other facilities. "With a dog officer on duty, more dogs will be caught. This brings up the matter of a dog shelter."

"This is a stop-gap ordinance," Mr. Cook argued. "It's an ordinance to get things going, to get a dog control officer a few months early. There's a lot for a dog control officer to do before he catches any dogs. He has to get to know the streets, the facilities—and the dogs."

Cost: $35,000 a Year. "I estimate this is going to mean a $30,000-to-$35,000 yearly cost to the taxpayers . . ." said Mr. Healy. When asked by Committeeman William L. Wilson to give suggestions as well as criticisms, Mr. Healy said: "Turn it over to the administrator. I would expect a full capital justification before the ordinance is presented."

Subject: DANGEROUS DRUGS—DISCARD!

Old prescription bottles with remnants of unused medication are dangerous to you and your loved ones. Deterioration due to age, exposure to humidity or heat often change potency. Insufficient amounts remaining lead to inadequate treatment and even failure to act at all. The next illness may respond best to another drug or different dosage.

Unidentified medicinol preparations are always a danger to those who use them, and to children who play doctor-patient after raiding the medicine chest.

Old prescription bottles and old medicines are seldom of value . . . and always a menace. For the health and safety of your family, discard useless, dangerous left-over drugs.

"Somebody has to do it," said Mr. Wilson. "If the administrator is going to do it, that's fine. I just think it has to get going."

"I think we ought to know where the Borough stands on this," Mr. Mount said. We only have an informal agreement with the Borough." And there, for the time being, the matter stood.

Variance For Dentist. The Township Committee approved the variance requested by Dr. A. B. Lampert after lengthy questioning of his attorney, William Miller. Dr. Lampert, who lives at 373 Rosedale Road, proposes to have a three bedroom apartment and dental offices in his building at 204 N. Harrison Street. The Zoning Board recommended the variance be granted.

Committee approved, providing the tenants of the apartment be limited to the dentist's staff, himself and his family. The use of the building would be limited to the practice of dentistry, and the variance would pass with the house, in the event that it is sold.

Somethiog New. Mr. Griffin called Committee's attention to the fact that it was creating a precedent. The variance would mark the first time that a professional proposed to divide a residence into offices and living quarters without establishing bis home in the residence.

"This is not a nature of home occupation," said Mr. Griffin. "This will constitute a precedent which will be brought to the Committee in future cases of this nature. I don't say that I should deny this application, but I do feel that the committee should be aware that this is a precedent."

Mr. Healy, commenting on the number of offices contemplated, expressed the opinion that "this could lead to group practice in the building." Mr. Miller said this was not contemplated. Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman noted that the variance does not stipulate how many dentists would use the offices, and Mr. Miller was questioned as to parking facilities The Committee approved the variance, Mr. Healy voting against it.

PERSONALITIES

Richard H. Morgan, 84 Elm Road, who last Saturday achieved for the seventh time a feat most golfers dream of accomplishing once when he holed his tee shot on the 128-yard 15th at Springdale. In the company of Dr. Thomas James, Harry McKenzie and Robert Shaw, Morgan used a nine iron to record the ace—his second on that hole and fifth on the Princeton course. The others: at Pine Valley and in Maine.

Marloara Trifan, Lillie Street, Princeton Junction, who returned to the news last week as piano soloist at a Robin Hood Dell children's concert in Philadelphia. For her playing of Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C, the 12-year old artist drew the Philadelphia Inquirer's praise for demonstrating "a solid technique, good tone and a sure musical instinct."

REPORT IS NEGATIVE

On Zoining For Industry. The Township Planning Board has made public a report stating that the disadvantages of permitting light industry within the Township outweigh the advantages. The report was written by Jack M. Kendree of Philadelphia, a planning consultant.

The report asserts that if the area proposed for light industry were completely filled with industrial plants, the total "profil" to the Township in the form of taxes received over cost of services provided would be between $9,000 and $10,000 annually. The "profil" from the same area filled with one and one-half acre housing, the report states, would be between $8,000 and $9,000.

The report concludes that the difference is not worth the inconveniences and costs to residents. Among these the report lists: 1) maintenance of control of noise, vibration, smoke, radiation, glare, fire and explosive hazards; 2) added traffic hazards; 3) added sewage requirements; 4) provision of police and other service; and 5) the necessity for an "industrial development committee" with an annual budget of several thousand dollars to co er costs of maps, brochures, advertising, entertainment and so forth.

Township Committee has asked the Planning Board to pursue its study to determine whether the area now zoned for research should continue to exist or whether a portion of this area should be returned to a residential classification.

Report Changes Viewpoints. Committeeman John S. Mount campaigned for election three years ago on the position that the Township needed an industrial development area for light industry. "I have completely reversed myself," he said at Monday night's Committee meeting.

Committeeman William L. Wilson, who also previously favored light industry, said he had changed his mind on the subject. The report was "accepted and approved" unanimously by the Committee.

ROUND-UP

Princeton Engine Co. No. 1 will hold its annual outing on Labor Day, the event featuring a target shoot, with prizes donated by merchants in town. . . . those wishing to contribute prizes are asked to notify Frank Maguire, committee chairman, at WA 4-2083, and arrangements will be made to call for them.

The variance in Monday's rainfall was extreme . . . while Princeton was getting more than three inches, the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association measured only 1.75 near Pennington and the torrential downpour which gave Princeton almost an inch and a half Monday afternoon missed the city of Trenton entirely.

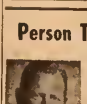
Two minor automobile accidents occurred during the week, in addition to the fatal crash in Lawrenceville (see Topics of the Town) . . . on Monday, 17-year old Gerald Chamberlain of Alexander Road failed to make a turn from Snowden into Van Dyke, striking a tree and damaging the front of the car extensively . . . he and a passenger, Gordon Tindall, 15, of Duich Neck, received lacerations and contusions.

Next day at 7 a.m., Mrs. Martha Thomas, 49, 9 Brookside Avenue, Pennington, and Alex Leuchters, 65, of Trenton, collided at the intersection of Elm and Rosedale . . . neither was injured, although Mrs. Thomas was x-rayed at Princeton Hospital.

Three members of the Borough Police Department have completed 15 years of service: Sgt. Robert Anderson and Detectives Robert McMannis and Arthur Gallant . . . three others have finished their first decade: Lieut. Francis Maguire and Patrolmen Theodore Lewis and John Markuson.

With Wall Street none too happy about President Kennedy's depressing actions on current stock prices, buttons have appeared reading, "I miss Ike . . . and Harry, too!"

Person To Person



Cory S. Kammler

An old nature expert was telling us that people often confuse two kinds of animals that are really quite different. To illustrate, he told us how to recognize the differences between seals and sea lions. Seals, he said, have short necks and their flippers have claws, while sea lions have long necks and they have no claws. Seals have under fur and sea lions do not. We wouldn't want to dampen his enthusiasm about these facts, but we must admit that knowing the differences between seals and sea lions, although interesting, is not too useful to us. There are some differences, though, that it is valuable to be able to recognize. Take the integrity of a business firm. Knowing the differences between those who operate by the Golden Rule and those who do not can lead to long-run savings and more satisfaction for you. May we serve you? WET MONDAY: Black skies and frequent cloudbursts were the order of the day Monday as the rains finally came. The Mercer-Nassau Street intersection is shown above during a downpour, while at right, Tom Skidmore of 35 William Street and Duffy Prince, Princeton Junction, do what any normal 13-year olds would when Witherspoon's gutters turned into cool brooks on a hot day. A casualty was a 100-foot ash tree in front of the Pyne Administration Building on the University Campus which blew down in the wind that accompanied Monday night's brief storm.

LAW IS CHALLENGED

In Loitering Case. An application of the "loitering" amendment to Princeton's disorderly persons ordinance has been challenged in Borough Court as a violation of the first and 14th amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

The amendment, passed last February by Borough Council, authorizes the prosecution of persons who "go on" private property without the consent of the owner. Offenders face a maximum fine of $25 or five days in jail.

Last week, police arrested five young men between the ages of 18 and 20 under the "go on" clause. Police reported the five were sitting on the wall in front of Firestone Library on the south side of Nassau Street without the consent of Princeton University, which, they said, owns the wall.

The men are James R. Hagadorn, Jr., 19, of R.D. 1, Cranbury; Kevin T. Delaney, 18, of 56 Jefferson Road; Richard S. Traegler, 18, of 28 Chestnut Street; Michael N. Niese, 20, of 16 Bank Street, and Sigard Pederson, Jr., 19, of 254 Jefferson Road.

Charge Freedom Violated. Henry Stratton, attorney for Hagadorn, said a conviction under the circumstances of the case would be a violation of the freedom of assembly provision of the first amendment and of the due process clause of the 14th amendment.

On cross-exapination in Borough Court Monday night, Lt. Francis Maguire, acting chief of police, said he interpreted the amendment as authorizing police to "break up groups of troublemakers." Lt. Maguire said the five in this group qualified as "troublemakers" on the basis of "past experience."

After the hearing, Lt. Maguire explained that three of the five have police records. Hagadorn and Niese, he said, have been convicted of malicious mischief. Traegler, Lt. Maguire said, has been convicted of having been drunk and disorderly.

Patrolman John Markuson, one of two arresting officers, said the five were "creating no particular disturbance." Sergeant Michael Carnevale, the second arresting officer, said the five were given no advance warning on the night they were arrested.

Warnings Issued. Sgt. Carnevale said he had warned other groups sitting on the wall on five consecutive evenings prior to the arrest. He said he could not remember whether any of the five had also been in these other groups. Lt. Maguire testified, however, that he personally had warned Hagadorn on other occasions against sitting on the wall.

Mr. Stratton raised the issue of whether the wall is, in fact, private property. He suggested it might be part of the state highway right of way. He also raised the issue of whether the five knew they were sitting on the wall against the consent of Princeton University, the alleged property owner.

A letter was introduced into evidence from Ricardo Mestres, vice-president and treasurer of the university, to former police chief Raymond Mondone. The letter authorized police to come on the university property to break up groups "playing cards" and conducting otherwise "undesireable activities." It was dated June 30, 1961.

Mr. Stratton raised the question whether the permission granted in the letter was still valid. He also compared the amendment to a state law against trespassing which, unlike the Borough ordinance, requires that the property owner's lack of consent be manifest verbally or through signs.

Mr. Stratton moved for a dismissal of the charges on the ground that the prosecution had failed to prove that the five were on private property without the consent of the owner.

Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. reserved decision, adjourning the case on his own motion. He said he will rule next week whether the charges should be dismissed or a defense must be provided

CONTRACT EXTENDED

With West Windsor. The Borough Board of Education has approved a five-year contract with the sending district of West Windsor Township for students at Princeton High School. The contract will terminate in 1970.

The board had originally proposed a three-year contract, but West Windsor requested the five-year arrangement in order to be able to make long-range plans for the education of its high school students. The longer contract was approved by an 8-1 vote.

Mrs. Sarah Strayer cast the lone negative. She contended that more study of projected school populations was needed.

— PETE MOSS

Actually, Pete wasn't complaining, any more than the rest of us, about all that rain in a hurry. For every drop that went down the drain, some went into the ground. Early showers were forecast for Thursday but the long-range outlook through mid-August is for continued precipitation below normal. Still and all, it's developing into a mighty liveable summer around these usually steaming parts.

Graham Rohrer, board president, said all available statistics had been gathered. They showed that the overcrowding was unlikely under a five-year contract, he said.

The board voted unanimously to acquire 14 acres of land from Westminster Choir College for an educational center around Princeton High School. The purchase price was set at $140,000. The action must be approved by a referendum.

Under the terms of the agreement with the college, the board will not acquire title to the land until site improvement plans have been drawn up. The board has three years in which to submit such plans.

The board also authorized the purchase of an additional acre and a quarter from Richard E. Bradley, 190 Linden Lane. The land adjoins the Choir College tract at Guyot Avenue. The purchase price is $20,000. This action must also be approved by referendum.

The board approved unanimously the appointment of three new teachers. They are Robert Krueger, 28 Markham Road, high school mathematics; Mrs. Lucille Messina of Wilmington, Del., elementary instrumental music, and Mrs. Elizabeth Nelson, 14 University Way, Princeton Junction, high school English.

The board accepted the resignation from the custodial staff of Elbert Millburn of Levittown, Pa. It approved unanimously the appointment of two men to the custodial staff. They are John Delneso, 22 Henry Avenue, and Joseph Brewster of Trenton.

CLOSER TIES PLANNED

For School Boards and PHS. Five school boards are moving closer to representation in Princeton High School affairs.

Delegates of the sending districts will formally organize on Tuesday as the Joint Advisory Committee on Curriculum. The session is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. at the High School.

Named to the Committee were Mrs. Richard C. Dearborn, West Windsor Township; Thomas S. Deering, Jr., Hopewell Borough; Robert W. Blessing, Montgomery Township; A. Robert Trudel and Lawrence Thompson, Princeton Township. Dr. Jeremiah Finch was elected by Princeton Borough as its representative. All delegates are members of their respective school boards.

Despite its title, the Committee's scope of interest will encompass all school activities which have a bearing on the educational experience of the students. Such matters as guidance, courses of study, teacher selection, teacher salaries, in-service training and athletics will be reviewed.

As the Committee's studies will include all students from kindergarten through twelfth grade, recommendations will be made to the boards of the sending districts as well as to the Princeton Borough Board.

At the organization meeting, the Committee will establish rules of procedure and elect a chairman and secretary. A member of the Princeton Borough school board expressed the conviction at the June 5 meeting of the initial study group that the first permanent chairman should not be a representative of the Borough board.

Dear Folks:

You say you're confused, well let us assure you that we, too, are in a state of confusion. Maybe we are old fashioned, or possibly we are just plain crazy, but here we are starting our August Furniture and Carpet Sale in August; everyone else had the August Furniture Sale in July. Oh well! This way we have no competition in August. Things are in such a chaotic muddle that we expect to see the Christmas decorations going up in September and the January White Sales, in full swing, while we old-fashioned folks are having our turkey dinner on Thanksgiving Day.

We really don't have any new or sensational things to sell during our AUGUST FURNITURE SALE in August. That's not the reason we are having the sale, we just have the nice things that you find in our showrooms every day of the year and have reduced the prices greatly because the new things we ordered at the recent manufacturers' showings will be arriving in September and we will be needing more space for them.

In closing, we would like to leave this thought with you. If you like to shop in air-conditioned showrooms and in an atmosphere of friendliness, where folks ask for Lee or Julia, Roger or Art, Will or Walt, Tommy or Joe, Al or Fred, and where you will see the largest display of nationally-advertised brands of furniture and carpet around, and be guaranteed that you can't buy the same for less anywhere, or get better service, drop in to see us.

We expect to have some busy days now, being in the story daily except Sundays from 9 A.M. til 5:30 P.M. and Thurs. and Fri. Evenings til 9 P.M., so if you don't hear from us just dial WAlnut 1-9100 or 1-9292.

Love,

Art—Roger—Walt—Will—Julia

Joe—Tommy—Fred—Lee—Al

Join us for lunch . . . Our lobster and shrimp salads and our cold summer dishes will delight you . . . Our sandwiches are the finest, of course.

News Of The THEATRES

ONE-ACTERS NEXT

At Princeton Players. Three one-act plays, encompassing comedy, verse and protest, will be presented by the Princeton Players next week. The series, scheduled for Tuesday through Saturday, will be a premiere in the Princeton area for playwrights Berthold Brecht, George Courteline and Edwin Honig.

The Brecht play "The Exception and the Rule," was written in 1930. It explores two of his favorite themes, justice and the class struggle. Louis Lippa of the Hedgerow Theatre, Moylan, Pa., will direct.

"Article 330" by George Courteline is a comedy about a man who is tried for committing a public indecency in the privacy of his own apartment. The direction will be by James Hatch, Players' associate producer, and director of the drama program at the Barnard School in New York.

Edwin Honig's verse play, "The Widow" concerns the reactions of two women upon hearing of the mysterious disappearance of a poet. In the course of their conversation, the women reveal and reinterpret their relationship to the man. Natalie Schmitt, a director from the Brown University theatre, will be in charge.

Robert Wren, Eric Berne and Virginia de Angelis will be featured in the one-acters. Mr. Wren has frequently appeared with Community Players and University Players.

Eric Berne made his stage debut in the Broadway production of "Inherit the Wind," and has done television work for the major networks. Miss de Angelis has just been seen here in the Players' production of "Pots of Money" and "Tonight We Improvise."

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling the box office, WA 4-4928. The theatre is located at 259 Nassau Street.

CHAUCER FOR CHILDREN

Four Performances Planned. Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales," adapted by Lowell Swortzell of 243 State Road, will be presented Thursday and Friday at the Douglass College Children's Summer Theatre. The performance will be repeated Thursday and Friday, August 2 and 3.

"Tales like that of the alchemist who pretends to make silver, of how the crow came to be black, and of the Chanticleer and Pertelote make up a fantasy world in which children delight," Mr. Swortzell said, "even though at first thought Chaucer might not seem to be the most suitable author for children."

For "The Canterbury Tales," the costume designer has drawn his sketches directly from description of characters in Chaucer's work. Original music will be sung during the production. Children taking part in the six-week project are drawn from surrounding communities.

The curtain will rise at 10:30 a.m. at the Little Theatre at Douglass. Tickets are 75 cents. Parents have been asked to make reservations in advance by calling Charter 7-1766, ext. 7258.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Hatari! (July 25-August 2) is a melodrama, photographed at locations on the plains of Tanganyika and in other primitive sections of South Africa. John Wayne stars. He is given fine support by comedian Red Buttons and the musical score by Henry Mancini.

The story takes place at the Momella Game Farm, outside near the town of Arusha, Tanganyika, famed as a game headquarters run by men who

BAND CONCERT SET

In Front of Nassau Hall. The Princeton Community Band will give a concert Friday night at 7:30 in front of Nassau Hall. Richard Gerstenberger will conduct.

The program: "King Cotton March" by John Philip Sousa; "Stradella Overture" by Friedrich von Flotow; "Water Music Suite" by George Frederick Handel. Also, the "Commando March" by Samuel Barber; "Strike Up the Band" by George Gershwin; "Bluebells of Scotland" and "Syncopated Clock", both by Leroy Anderson, and "Chorale and Alleluia" by Howard Hanson.

The rain date will be Monday, July 30.

CONCERT SCHEDULED

As Vocal Camp Closes. The Vocal Camp of the Westminster Choir College will close its three-week session with a concert Friday night at 8 in the Princeton High School auditorium.

James McKeever will conduct, with Joan Lippincott accompanying. Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., president, will lead the students in his anthem, "The King's Highway". Princeton composer David York will also be represented in the program with "Go Ye into All the World".

At the camp, the 250 students received training in vocal methods, choral conducting and eurythmics. The four voice sections will present a short program Saturday morning in the school's chapel, which will be followed by an official closing ceremony.

During the academic year, James McKeever, director of the camp, is head of the Department of Voice. Other faculty members who have worked at the camp are LoRean Hodapp, suprano; Rosemary Russell, alto; Robert Simpson, tenor; and Herbert Pate, bass. Students from this area are Donald Coppinger, Julia McLean and James McKeever.

There are a limited number of free tickets available for the concert which may be acquired by calling the school at WA 1-7100.

capture wild animals for zoos and circuses. Wayne, as Sean Mercer, is head of the hunters. Buttons plays "Pockets", a former New York cab driver with a great sense of humor; Hardy Kruger is a former racing driver who chases herds of wild animals in a jeep, and Elsa Martinelli adds romance as the beautiful photographer sent to the farm on assignment. There are fantastic action scenes taken on safaris and several incidents of uproarious comedy. Comment: adventure laced with laughs.

The Spiral Road (August 3-7) is built on the age-old theme that man's redemption lies in faith, love and charity, rather than in ambition, selfishness and self-sufficiency.

Rock Hudson stars as a young doctor sent by the Dutch Government to the health service of Batavia to complete his training in tropical medicine. He scoffs at the concept that compassion can motivate a life of service. He is confronted by a gruff and magnificent doctor of almost legendary character in the jungles, played to a farethewell by, of all people, folksinger Burl Ives. Another key figures is the gentle and saintly man Geoffrey Keen and wife who have conducted a leper colony in the jungle for 20 years. The jungles of the Dutch East Indies are magnificently photographed in color, and the direction delicately underlines each nuance of the Jan de Hartog bestseller on which the film is based. Comment: powerful drama.

THE GARDEN

El Cid (July 18-31) is a super spectacle. It interprets the story of the Cid, famed warrior of Eleventh Century Spain. The photography is magnificent.

Charlton Heston portrays the stalwart hero in his usual grand style, this time highlighted by a poignant love theme involving beautiful Sophia Loren. There are several

OLD FURNITURE REVIVED Mended, Restored, Sold. Take an old chair. But don't take it to the dump. Take it as though you were driving to Lambertville on Route 518, and before you get to Lambertville, watch out on the left side of the road if you're driving from Princeton) for Paul Freas' "The Little Shop."

Take your old chair to Mr. Freas any day except Wednesday) and ask his advice about repair. His advice will be sound, his repair will be sound and his price will be modest and what more can you ask?

Within the spacious confines of his shop, Mr. Freas repairs all kinds of furniture. Some of it is for people like you, with an old and favorite chair to mend. Some of it is for potential customers of "The Little Shop" who visit the bright and tidy little room to pick up old pieces of furniture, lovingly refurbished.

Every week, Mr. Freas prowls the auctions and the second-hand shops in search of pieces he can bring to warm and burnished life. He works over them with glue, saw and elbow grease and produces such delights as the solid chestnut wash-stand, relieved of its seven coats of paint and glowing with the richness of its own wood, equipped with burnished handles and the original towel rack at the back.

Near the wash-stand, in the sunny, stone-floored antiques shop is a small side table of cherry with spool legs, marble top and long single drawer. There is a pleasant round table with an old English base and around it four chairs, including two solid chestnut chairs with rush seats and ladder backs.

A most unusual chair, made of reddish Brazilian mahogany has tall steeples rising from each side of the top, and a rush seat.

In addition to side chairs, tables and chests, "The Little Shop" has accessory pieces, like the set of square blue and white china canisters, six big ones, flour, etc.) and six small ones (cloves, etc.) There is a cathedral clock of deep walnut and an Empire style American clock with black enamel finish and bronze legs to add their pleasant ticking to the shop's atmosphere.

To give you an idea of what Mr. Freas can do in repair, we offer a solid walnut 3-drawer chest, awaiting the hand-carved handles which Mr. Freas will add one day soon. From an old table (50 cents at an auction), Mr. Freas will take the four solid, nicely carved feet to support a chest whose mangled feet have had to be amputated. He will make a new solid walnut backing for a chest too roughly handled by time. Now, about your old chair .....

RUM AND ROCKS

Take a Tonic. Gin will never die, but rum is coming along, according to the Wine and Game Shop, offering as proof, if you will pardon the double meaning, the increasing popularity this summer of rum and tonic as a cooling drink. Make it with a light rum, and you will find that the tonic and the lime—if you are one who believes in lime with a tonic drink—will cut the sweetness of the rum, and offer you a pleasant change from the usual g. and t.

Part of the popularity of rum, says Wine and Game, derives from the frozen daiquiri mix which takes the guess out of concocting that tricky drink, the daiquiri. Twelve drinks to a can. Just add, as the cooks always say, just add the rum.

For the pre-mixed Bloody Mary and the Screwdriver, you needn't even add the vodka, because everything is right there, in the picnic-sized can. The alcoholic content of these drinks is not high—17 proof—so you can take them along on a picnic and still drive home.

With you on that picnic, you may want to take Iron City's octagonal cardboard tub which holds 24 cans of beer for $3.99 and is so easy to carry and so useful, you'll undoubtedly save the tub for things like fireplace wood and toys and such.

If it is to be a very special picnic—a deux, possibly? — take a chilled rose d'Anjou ($1.49 a bottle) or Maxime's de Paris at $2.29.

Wine and soda fanciers will like the Moselbluemchen or the Liebfraumilch at $1.69.

With all these, for light summer munching and lunching. Wine and Game passes around the hickory-smoked peanuts, dry and greaseless without oil, sugar or fat, and can your guests say as much?

You are familiar already with the dry toasted peanuts which are also done to a greaseless turn. Plenty of these munchers at Wine and Game, including potato chips which are shamelessly prepared WITH oil and fat and probably even with sugar, for all we know.

DID YOU CALL?

Bell Is On the Line. There is more to having a telephone these days than trying to remember all-digit numbers. Bell Telephone has all kinds of exciting ideas to make even wrong numbers fascinating.

For example, you can have a home interphone which allows you to answer the front door, apartment style, or to mind the baby upstairs while you are eating a hamburger on the terrace down stairs.

Our favorite is the automatic answering set which prevents that maddening last ring just as you race in from the car. This compact and attractive mechanism records messages for you and leaves them for you to play back when you get home. And think what fun the kiddies can have with it!

If there are several phones

Eat Off the Floor?

The traditional test of neatness and cleanliness might well be applied to the workshop of Paul Freas, the furniture man whose activities are described in fuller detail elsewhere in this column.

Mr. Freas has a big, cool, spacious barn of a shop behind his "Little Shop" antiques show-room, and within this shop he has $8,000 worth of the most awesome woodworking equipment you ever saw: drills, cutters, shapers, thickness planers, special marble cutters, tools for making moldings and for cutting rough lumber, an incinerator for burning every molecule of sawdust, and footings already laid for an eventual spray room.

All of this is arranged as neatly as a dentist's instrumeats, all of the rooms swept so clean that you can scarcely imagine the industrious buzzing that goes on in them when Mr. Freas is at work.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Many items in the local news these past months, regarding Princeton High School, have been most distressing to me. The lack of cooperation and understanding between the Township and Borough Boards of Education culminating in the threat by the Township to build its own high school has been depressing news to say the least.

Today, however, as I read the last of Linda Aimgren's letters to "Dear Princeton," a wave of confidence washed away many of my former doubts. Here in these articles so beautifully written by a member of the 1962 graduating class of Princeton High School, are the group impressions, experiences and expressions of gratitude to a community which sponsored, through a great deal of effort, cooperation and expense, this whole enterprise.

These young people shared the hard work of learning this tremendously difficult music; the inspiration of Tom Hilbish, whose faith in them and their ability to learn never faltered; the thrill of expressing the things they learned for others to hear; the rewards which such devotion and hard work bring to anyone for a job well done; and last but most important, as Linda writes, "the moments when we sang as a perfect whole, when we were suddenly inspired by music we had sung a hundred times before, when we went beyond just intonation and melody lines and technical perfection to create something beautiful and to translate this beauty to other people, no matter in what language they spoke." Certainly, this is the ultimate

Book Report: What's Princetan Reading?

(This is the first of a series of reports on what Princeton is reading. TOWN TOPICS will carry them on a continuing basis.)

Princeton's three principal book stores — The University Store Book Department, Male's Book Shop and The Book Mart — have reported the most popular books in fiction and non-fiction based on current sales.

All three reported that the most popular piece of fiction was Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "Dearly Beloved." There was no unanimity, however, in the field of non-fiction. The Book Mart listed "Who's in Charge Here?" by Gerald Gardner as its most popular, non-fiction seller; the University Store reported "Conversations With Stalin" by Milovah Djilas and Male's said Edward Bennett Williams' "One Man's Freedom."

Each store was also asked by TOWN TOPICS to recommend a book it thought Princeton readers might enjoy. The Book Mart selected "Letting Go" by Philip Roth with the comment that it was a "well-written new novel."

The University Store chose "Letters of James Agee to Father Flye," commenting that it is the first published book from Agee's personal letters since his death in 1955. The book contains 90 letters written to an Episcopalian priest, one of the author's oldest friends, and takes him back through his school days at Exeter and Harvard. "Not everybody's meat but people interested in Agee should find it very interesting."

"The Prize" by Irving Stone was picked by Male's, which described the book as "extremely readable, colorful and interesting. It is a vivid behind-the-scenes anatomy of the Nobel Prize." The novel tells how Nobel juries secretly reach their decisions, how attempts are made to influence them, and how the awards have changed the recipients' lives.

in fine education and bears no relationship to a "deteriorating school system."

Why isn't it possible to use the choir trip enterprise as a model for future school planning? Without question, the Borough and Township share a common goal, the finest high school in the country. Whatever the means, consolidation or not, I am confident that with hard work, patience, wisdom, cooperation, and, if necessary, financial sacrifice, this end will be reached.

exciting battle scenes between the Moors and the Spanish. But the color camera work is most impressive, in many instances giving the feeling of witnessing the unfolding of a series of beautiful paintings by old masters. Comment: beautiful escapism.

THE PRINCE

Judgment at Nuremburg (now playing) In view of reports that Western Germany is finally weeding former Nazis from government positions, "Judgment at Nuremburg" has added significance. The story revolves around three American judges presiding at the trial of four judges of the Third Reich on charges of perverting justice and of crimes against humanity.

Spencer Tracy, in the role of a small town judge from Maine who is presiding justice at the trial, is extremely impressive. Maximilian Schell, as attorney for the defense, brings to a thankless role intensity, sincerity and an impassioned desire for truth, which makes his performance of surpassing worth. Richard Widmark, as the dynamic prosecuting attorney, provides dramatic fireworks. And Burt Lancaster does extremely well in his off-beat casting as the German judge of high repute. Others in the cast are Judy Garland, Marlene Dietrich and Montgomery Clift. Actual newsreel footage of Nazi atrocities add depth and horror to the superb acting. Comment: significant study of Nazis on trial.

in the house, Bell suggests an exclusion key for important calls that require privacy. When the receiver is put back after the call, the key is pushed down and other extensions automatically restored to the line.

Hard-of-hearing customers will welcome a volume control hand set, and Bell even suggests this for mothers of young children to use when the bedlam in the background is overwhelming.

And if bedlam is really driving you wild, Bell will install a chime which comes in three sounds: a good loud bell, a low bell or a melodic chime. And after that low, sweet, muted chime has rung, your 10-year-old will summon you to the phone: "HEY, MAW. IT'S FOR YOU!"

European Newspapers Warm in Praise of Princeton High School Choir

(Newspapers in Germany, Holland and England were uniformly enthusiastic in their reviews of the concerts given by the Princeton High School Choir on its European tour. TOWN TOPICS is indebted to Peter Vajk for his translation from the German and to Ray Van Raalte for his translation from the Dutch.)

GERMANY

Berlin: "Die Welt," June 15.

"It is a shame that the Princeton High School Choir had to replace the orchestra by a piano at its concert in Kongresshalle. The choir offered a presentation of Webern's Cantatas, opus 29 and 31, which can be a milestone in the history of any professional ensemble. That the Choir sang the abnormally difficult intervals with stirring differentiation and assured mastery borders on the marvelous. The soloists were two members of the Choir—Marcia Ramsey and Durant Robertson.

"The relatively soft piano accompaniment forced director Thomas Hilbish to hold back the Choir, for which the Choir could only partly make amends in Bach's 'Magnificat' by their harmony. Without an orchestra the "Symphony of Psalms" lost the solidity so very important for Stravinsky; nevertheless, the pedagogical value of the performance is not to be denied."

Hannover: "Hannoversche Allgemeine Zeitung, June 22.

"If it was written that the High School Choir of Princeton, N. J., enjoyed an exceptional recognition in the U. S. A., it is easy to understand why after its first concert in Hannover, in the auditorium of the Technical College. The choir director, Thomas Hilbish, has succeeded in training a mixed chorus of extraordinary precision, floatingly light rythm, and especially exact intonation.

"These merits were the secure foundation of the polyphony in the Buxtehude Cantata "Das Neugeborne Kindelein' and in Bach's Magnificat." The cultivated timbre of the ensemble, blended into a homogeneous unity, is, if one may say so, the sum of numerous well trained single voices, which was impressively demonstrated in the solo parts.

CHOIR DIRECTOR: Thomas Hilbish, cited by European critics for his fine direction of PHS Choir.

"If the dynamic subtleties as well as the faculty of expression of the choir did not come through, it was because of the unfortunate acoustics of the room with its echoing resonance. Also the transfer of the instrumental parts to the piano, which was especially obtrusive in that auditorium, was not effective.

"The choir deserves special recognition for their rendition of Anton Webern's two cantatas. All the difficulties of twelve-tone choral music were overcome; the construction of progressions was elevated to the level of musical expressiveness. There must be a few choirs which dare attack such hardships of direction with difficult loteral jumps and abstract harmonies. The talents of the Princeton Choir were revealed, especially in the Webern Cantatas, as truly extraordinary."

Freiburg: "Badische Zeitung," July 2.

"During the past few weeks some mention has been made in this newspaper of the excellent school choir of 55 singers from Princeton High School. The expectations, as the performance proved, were far surpassed.

"This well-trained, carefully-selected choir, sang the highly difficult Webern Cantatas, which cannot be compared to any earlier works, entirely from memory with an unheard-of discipline, with a naturalness and casualness, together with such exemplary articulation and such pronunciation of the German text, that even the musical connoisseur was filled with amazement and admiration — an achievement which is to be valued very highly, especially in view of the atonal structure and an entirely new technique and form of song and of singing which are without example. Thus did the young singers from America lead the audience effortlessly into the inspired world of Anton Webern's harmonies, attaining the spiritual and formal content of the text and the realm of absolute music without pathos, without massive violence, but sempre piano and pianissimo.

"The large, packed audience, deeply gripped by the ethical content of the works and by the performance, honored the singers from America with such enthusiastic applause that both works had to be repeated. Especially grateful applause was accorded to the outstanding choir director Thomas Hilbish, to both of the pre-eminent soloists, Marcia Ramsey and Durant Robertson, as well as to the accompanist at the piano, Mathilde McKinney."

HOLLAND

The Hague: "Haagsche Courant," June 25.

"The high point was the presentation of the two Kantaten of Anton Webern, using the text of the Austrian painter Hildegard Humplik. Webern felt particularly attracted to this type of lyrical and somewhat mysterious poetry.

"The twelve-tone music is especially adapted to it, but is extremely difficult to sing. The manner in which the Princeton High School Choir executed these Cantatas commanded every respect. An exceptional performance was given by the soprano, Marcia Ramsey, and the bass, Durant Robertson."

The Hague: "Het Vrije Volk," June 25.

"The choir members dressed in a type of blue silk toga made a very fine impression, dignified, and without ostentation, they completed their program.

"Under the quiet, and apparently unstrained direction of Thomas Hilbish, Bach's "Magnificat" did not immediately seem to have much promise. Several parts were very rapidly performed, or presented in a heavy romantic style. It was not Bach in the correct Baroque conception.

"The demanding accompaniment of Mathilde McKinney was also somewhat removed from the traditional Bach style. There was too heavy a use of the pedal.

"Thereafter, however, the youths completely redeemed themselves. This began with the Kantate "Das Neugeborne Kindelein" by Buxtehude, which was presented with just the correct lightness of touch, and clear four-part harmony, and great purity, by the admittedly amateur group.

The greatest surprise, however, came with the two Kantaten, opi 29 and 31, by Anton Webern. Where can one find a professional choir, let alone an amateur group, which can perform this type of work?

"Of course, amateurs such as these high school students are an ideal medium. They are by their training, suited from the outset to generate interest, and to give an intelligent rendition of this purely pantonal music. They did this in a truly exceptional manner.

"The indescribably difficult solo parts for the soprano and bass, with their impossible intervals were sung by Durant Robertson and Marcia Ramsey. Both soloists give exceptional performances. The same is true for Mathilde McKinney, who gave beautiful depth to the music.

"Everything was sung from memory, including the Latin and German texts, as well as the intervals of the Webern. Our youthful, but appreciated the tremendous performance of director Hilbish, and his Choir. There was almost an unceasing applause—something which the beautifully-disciplined harmonies which the Princeon High School Choir formed deserved in full."

ENGLAND

London: Daily Dispatch, July 10.

"Anton Webern would have been thrilled and delighted had he heard his two Cantatas sung by the Princeton High School Choir under their tutor and conductor Thomas Hilbish at their invitation concert at the Royal College of Music last night.

"Little did one expect such outstanding performances. Indeed, one's heart sank as these 50 or so schoolboys and girls in their blue gowns mounted the platform.

"For they were entirely unarmed with music sheets and chaperoned only by Mathilde McKinney, who proceeded to accompany them from a piano reduction of Webern's elaborate orchestration.

"Yet, in the event, they displayed a complete mastery of the notes such as one is not often treated to in these

News Of The THEATRES

A GAY EVENING

With "Arms and the Man." The Princeton Players hit their stride this week with Shaw's "Arms and the Man," and staged a delightful production with all the Shavian trappings. Each performer rose to the occasion with aplomb, and gave the master's lines full value.

A full house was reported for last Friday's performance of Pirandello, and about 25 were turned away Saturday night. An early visit is definitely in order for this week's offering.

Romantic Bulgariana. Eric Berne and Lynn Milgrim, as Sergius and Raina, put across their parts ably as Eastern Europeans one step removed from the tribe and overly influenced by Byron and Pushkin. Mr. Berne handles the pompous gesturing with complete ease, and a better sneer would be hard to find.

Miss Milgrim is a bit too kittenish in the first act, but her capabilities are shown to good effect in the later scenes. Her brief "duet" with Mr. Berne in the second act is a real treat, and her moment of truth with Bluntschli is superb.

Virginia de Angelis does well by Catherine, although her vocal mannerisms tend toward the affected. She comes into her own with the wide-eyed lines on social climbing, and the audience is delighted to learn her family is the oldest in Bulgaria with 20 years of historic background.

The prize comedian of the show is Grenville Cuyler, whose portrayal of Petkoff is a masterpiece. His consistent accent is combined with excellent timing and a wonderful knowledge of the comic art. What's more, he can keep his pince-nez on the precise tip of his nose for an extended period Realistic Swiss. As Bluntschli, Don Marlatt has the difficult job of portraying Shaw's mouthpiece, and after an initial period of lukewarm acting he does it very well. The picture he gives of the dead-tired soldier succumbing to sleep is marvelous, and he handles the often involuted dialogue with Sergius with acuity and wit.

His treatment of Raina strikes just the proper balance between sympathy and cynicism, and he is at home in the role of mediator between Raina and Sergius.

Both Barbara Yam and George Nestor do justice to Louka and Nicola, who would be other than servants. Miss Yam is a good foil for Sergius, although her role tends to be submerged by the flamboyance of the others. In turn, Mr. Nestor is a good foil for all.

Paul Glickler has done a highly commendable job in the directorial department with smooth synchronization and interesting bits of action in the theatre-in-the-round. The new setting by Fred Marcellino, placed directly in the center of the audience, is a worthy successor to the first three.

In presenting the matter of the newly-formed Committee to the Township School Board, Mr. Trudel reminded them that the Committee's sole power was to recommend.

MOTORIST KILLED

After Ramming House. Murphy L. Ramsey, 36, 341 Monmouth Street, Trenton, died Thursday evening two-and-one-half hours after he had crashed into the side of the house of Albert M. DeCou, 69, at 2459 Main Street, Lawrenceville.

Witnesses said that Mr. Ramsey, reportedly a careful driver with a spotless traffic record, was speeding down Main Street at "90 to 100 miles an hour." After just missing another car, Mr. Ramsey's auto jumped the curb, sliced between a pole and a tree, and mounted a two-foot terrace before crashing into the house with shuddering force.

Before the car, hanging half way into the cellar, could be removed, the 50-year-old house had to be braced with jackposts and timber to prevent its collapse. Water leaked from broken pipes. Damage to the frame building was estimated at $7500.

Mr. Ramsey had worked as a checker at the Belle Mead Army Depot since 1951. He was returning home at 9 p.m., at the time of the crash, after working overtime.

THREE CARS DAMAGED

Each Maliciously. Two cars in the Township and one in the Borough were maliciously damaged last week, police report.

A 1958 Volkswagen owned by William Van Zandt, Broadview Farm, Blawenburg, was found damaged early Sunday morning in the parking lot of the Opinion Research Corporation. The car's windshield and a window on the right side had been smashed. A door panel on the right side was also damaged.

The engine hood in the rear was found in a raised position and police believe the motor was tampered with. Fingerprints on the side of the car were purposely smeared, police said.

Vandals also smashed the windshield and three windows of an automobile owned by Clifford Luther, 35 Main Street, Cranbury. The 1955 car, without plates and unused, was located at The Old Barn, Terhune Road.

Stolen from the car were a two-way radio valued at $478 and a metal box containing mechanic's tools and a set of socket wrenches valued at $350. The stolen objects were

GIRLS ATTEND ROUND-UP

As Girl Scout Delegation, Cynthia Cronk, Anne Chenicek and Pamela Hasenzahl are three of Mercer County's delegates to the Girl Scout International Round-up. The girls are at Button Bay State Park in Vermont with 10,000 other Girl Scouts from 50 states.

They are camping on the shores of Lake Champlain, where the army has supplied the girls with 100 tons of tents and a 100-bed field hospital. The state of Vermont has installed a 250,000-gallon-a-day water system, tapping the big lake.

Anne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Chenicek of 199 Longview Drive. A senior at Princeton High School, she is the girls' sports editor of "The Tower" and a member of the Girls Leader Corps. Cynthia, who lives at 31 Evergreen Circle, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Cronk. She is a junior at Princeton High, a member of the Girls Leader Corps and treasurer of the Youth Fellowship at the Second Presbyterian Church.

Pamela is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hasenzahl of 193 Randall Road. A senior at Princeton High, she is a member of the Library Committee, a member of the Girls' Athletic Association, Fellowship chairman of the Senior High Fellowship of the First Presbyterian Church and a member of the Young Life Club.

DRIVER IS FINED

On Three Charges, Peter M. Heaviside, 19, 11 Dickinson Street, a University sophomore, pleaded guilty Monday to three traffic offenses in Borough Court.

A driver for the Bureau of Student Aid, Mr. Heaviside was fined $15 for driving an unsafe vehicle; $15 for using illegal plates, and $10 no registration. Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. presided.

Warren E. Weeks, 21, Old Hightstown Road, Cranbury, was fined $20 for following too closely; Miss Nancy J. Luther, 24, Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction, $19, speeding, and Thomas E. Mynes, 19, Lafayette Street, Belle Mead, $10, failing to give hand sigoal. All pleaded guilty.

In Princeton Township, Ernest Hunt, 20, 90 Westcott Road, was fined $20 and had his license suspended 60 days by Magistrate James S. Hill for careless driving. For throwing ice cream at a passing automobile, James R. Hagadorn, Jr., 19, Cranbury, was fined $50. He had been charged with throwing an object from a vehicle.

LICENSES REVOKED

For Driving Offenses. Under the New Jersey point system three drivers have lost their licenses: Edward Reeves, 42, of Grovers Mill, Princeton Junction, for one month; Stanley Garber, 32, 3 Joline Road, Franklin Park, one month; Nancy J. Damron, 33, 10 Rumson Road, Franklin Park, two months.

Under the excessive speed program, William J. Pasley, Jr., 22, Cherry Hill Road, 60 days; Clifford C. Calboun, 19, Rocky Hill-Blawenburg Road, Skillman, 30 days; Frank Stellitano, 48, Hopewell, 30 days; Harvey Rothberg, Jr., 34, 44 Robert Road, 30 days; James A. Spruill, 21, 138 John Street, two months; Michael G. Webster, 38, 172 Cedar Lane, 30 days.; Barnard J. Kovach, 33, 2263 Princeton Pike, 30 days.

In accordance with the New Jersey - Pennsylvania reciprocal agreement, two others lost their licenses: James W. Greenwood, 30, 30 Constable Road, Franklin Park, 20 days, and David V. Gresson 24, 51 Westcott Road, 30 days.

MERWICK HEAD NAMED

Coverage Extended. Mrs. Marion L. Mudgett, formerly administrator of Neal Memorial Nursing Home, Waynesboro, Pa., has been named to the newly-created post of director of Merwick, the Princeton Hospital nursing home.

Mrs. Mudgett's appointment marks the start of a new plan of management at Merwick. Previously, employees were supervised by department heads at the hospital. Now they will be supervised by Mrs. Mudgett, who will report on the management of Merwick to the hospital's administrator, John W. Kauffman.

Mr. Kauffman, who announced Mrs. Mudgett's appointment, also disclosed that the hospital is participating in a pilot program of the Hospital Service Plan (Blue Cross) of New Jersey. Under the plan, Blue Cross coverage will be available for patients who transfer for convalescence from the hospital to Merwick.

The arrangement provides that persons who hold a comprehensive contract with Blue Cross will be eligible for care at Merwick for a period of up to 60 days on the basis of two Merwick days to one hospital day. At present, Blue Shield of New Jersey is not participating in the program.

PLAYGROUNDS THRIVE

With Diverse Activities. Scores of children romped through ping-pong, pet shows and pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey contests last week under sunny skies and supervisors' watchful eyes at nine parks and playgrounds.

In the inter-playground softball league informed observers were speculating over the possibility of a triple tie for first place between Harrison Park, Riverside School and High School. The week's games went like this: High School 15, Valley Road 3; Riverside 16, Harrison 2; Valley Road 6, Grover 5; and Harrison over Littlebrook by forfeit.

Pet show winners at the Jugtown Playground on Erdman Avenue were Shevoun McManimon, Ann Bhrend, Jim Stonaker, Pat McManimon and Jane Bhrend. At Marquand Park, Janice Tumber's two-week-old kitten, "Tinker Bell," meowed her way to first place. Two guinea pigs, owned by Tommy Hilbert, were second, and Vickki Willock's year-old turtle crawled off with the third place ribbon.

At Valley Road, Sam Procicrini, Anthony Iacono and Larry Dixon took the first three places in a pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey contest. In a ping-pong tournament at Johnson Park, winners were Chipper Brenn, Bob McCarthy, Jay Pierce and Paul Fishback.

In Junior Softball, Harrison Park won once, defeating Grover Park, 10-8, and lost twice, to Valley Road, 11-9, and to High School, 14-6. Valley Road remained undefeated with a victory over High School, 19-5. A girls' softball team from Harrison Park outlasted Grover Park, 14-12.

Tony Cifelli won a bicycle race at Valley Road. Greg Bullock was second, and John Bailey placed third. Guido Procaccini was the winner of a butterfly hunt. Andrew Houston won a lolly pop hunt at Harbison Park. James Miller was second. Bicycle race winners at Johnson Park were Chipper Breen, Howard Vigorito and Susan Parnes.

A jump rope contest at Riverside School resulted in a first place blue ribbon for David Crawford. Dale Harris was second, while Lionel Hammon and Janet Pearce tied for third. Brian Cummings moved ahead in the horseshoe tournament. Fred Campbell was in second place.

An athletic meet was staged at the High School playground in preparation for the annual inter-playground track and field day program. In the older boys' division, Louis Balestrieri piled up the individual high point total with 32. Vinnie Buccanfuso was second with 23, and Mario Cifelli was third with 22. Winners in the younger boys' division were Dick Embly, 31; Timmy Kearns, 23, and Jack Petrone, 18.

Obituaries

Mrs. Eleanor Leigh Terradell Shepard, 83, a life-long resident of this area, died July 20 at the Nassau Inn where she had been living for the past two weeks. She was the widow of Elliot F. Shepard.

Living most of her life at the old Davis House in Lawrenceville, she also had a house in Miami Beach, Florida.

She and her husband were decorated many times for their work during World War I. Among her honors are the Medal of the American Field Service, the Diploma of the American Field Service, the Medaille d'Honneur de Reconnaissance Francaise from the French government for "meritorious service under heavy shell fire, far beyond the call of duty".

Mrs. Shepard worked at the Hospital of Ordinary Evacuation 38, where wounded from the Battles of Chateau Thierry and the Argonne were treated. Russell Terradell, Mrs. Shepard's brother, was killed in the Battle of the Argonne. Her two sisters, Loretta Terradell Morris and Mercedes Terradell Labatut, were also volunteers at the hospital.

Through her grandfather, Colonel Joseph M. Cutler, she was a Daughter of the War of 1812. She was also a member of the New Jersey Historical Society, a director of the Girl Scouts, Miami Council; a Colonial Dame, a member of the George Washington Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of Trenton, and a member of the Old Barracks Association in Trenton.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Jean Labatut and Mrs. Gelston Morris of Princeton; two brothers, Richard R. Terradell of Lynhurst, L. I. and Thomas M. Terradell of Florida and several nieces and nephews.

The service was held at the Blackwell Memorial Home in Pennington with the Rev. Rowland J. Cox officiating. Interment was in the Ewing Church Cemetery.

Jean Pierre Labiere, 83, died July 19 in Palm Beach, Fla. A former resident of Princeton, he was a retired farmer. Born in France, he lived in Princeton for 37 years.

He is survived by two sons, John H. of Princeton and Rene J. of Cedar Grove; four brothers, Eugene of Princeton; Edward of Lake Worth, Fla.; Joseph of Chattanooga, Tenn.; and Jacques of Lake Worth, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Anthony DeMauro of Lake Worth, Fla.; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home with requiem high mass at St. Paul's Church and interment in the parish cemetery.

Mrs. Jeanne H. Sweigert died July 23 in Princeton Hospital after a long illness. The widow of Joseph C. Sweigert, she lived on Mt. Rose-Pennington Road.

She is survived by six daughters, Mrs. Eugene Fletcher of Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Chester Wenzel of Trenton; Mrs. Roy Swingler of Levittown, Pa.; Mrs. Fred Varasse of Swarthmore, Pa.; Mrs. Marlowe Sorge of Cheyenne, Wyo.; and Mrs. Walter Kettenberg of Hopewell; a son, John Sweigert; 28 grandchildren, and a brother, David Stewart, of Philadelphia.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home with interment at the convenience of the family.

Peter Wallis, 27, only son of Prof. and Mrs. Everett S. Wallis of 115 Broadmead, died July 12 at the family home in Waitfield, Vt. He suffered from a kidney disease and had been ill for a number of years.

Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving of St. James Church, New York City, and former rector of Trinity Church here, officiated at the funeral service in Waitfield.

Mrs. Sally Potter Hilliard, 30, died unexpectedly on July 20 at her home, 144 Mercer Street.

She is survived by her husband, Richard L. Hilliard, two sons, Paul Raymond and Thomas Potter; and her mother, Mrs. Thomas Potter, all of Princeton. Also surviving are two brothers, Dr. Michael Potter of Bethseda, Md., and Parker B. Potter, Findlay, O.

A private funeral service was held on Monday at Trinity Episcopal Church with the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Spears, Jr., officiating. Interment was at the convenience of the family.

Miss Clare E. Felter, 84, of 98 W. Broad Street, Hopewell, died July 19 in Merwick after a long illness.

A resident of Hopewell for most of her life, she was a member of the Hopewell Presbyterian Church and served as organist of the church for many years.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Florence Bauer of Mercerville; three nephews and a niece. The service was held at the Hopewell Presbyterian Church with the Rev. John Ginter officiating. Interment was in the Mt. Hope Cemetery in Lambertville.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of the defeat of President Kennedy's medical aid bill by the Senate?

Where asked, Palmer Square.

Ronald Silvers, 217-B Eisenhower Street, graduate student, sociology: I think that because of partisan and faulty judgment, Congress has chosen not to recognize a very crucial social problem of providing medical care for the aged. This problem, because of the population explosion, is going to become more pressing in the future and therefore will be a much more difficult issue to handle.

Miss Isa Grigor, 46 Parkside Avenue, serial division, Firestone Library: I think it's terrible. We have it at home in Scotland and I think it is a very good thing for the people. It's a benefit to mankind, I believe. There are so many people who can't afford medical expenses, but to have this would be a benefit. I can't understand why so many Democrats voted against it. I hope it is brought up again and wins next year.

Michael L. McGuire, 220-A Harrison Street, graduate student: I think it is a good thing. I'm opposed to anything that connotes socialism. And this bill was, to me, the very essence of socialism.

C. E. Ware, Rockingham Road, editor of New Jersey Gazette: I think it is the most tragic thing in the Republican Party that's ever been done. The only thing comparable to it was the Burchard statement in the Blaine campaign. At a time when Blaine was way out in front, Dr. Burchard said that the only issue was Rome, Romanism and Rebellion. Blaine lost and everybody said that slogan defeated him. I'm unhappy it didn't pass because I know so many people it affects and I know a lot of young people who don't want to be handicapped caring for elderly parents, especially those with limited incomes. This has wrecked lots of families. Kennedy in his statement to the press said that the defeat affected every American family, which is absolutely true.

Miss Joan Pittinger, 73 N Main Street, Pennington, secretary for Personal Press: I feel since the margin of defeat was so small the people will bring it up again because there are a large number of people who want it. I think it is a good plan. It has defects like everything else, but I think it should be passed. In school, our senior class voted on it and it passed by just four or five votes.

Mrs. Marion Graff, 79 Dempsey Avenue, secretary: I'm very sorry that the bill was defeated and I feel very strongly about this because I personally have experienced the financial difficulties that can come when someone over 65 is dependent on others for medical care. I've been in clinics where people over 65 without funds or on relief have waited in vain endless hours on hard benches for doctors who could allow them only a cursory examination. I thought this bill was the first step in the right direction and without it nothing has improved.

Rudolph Schuler, Rocky Hill, cabinetmaker for Skillman Furniture: I think they should throw some of the old timers out of the Senate and put in some new blood. They can't keep up with the pace of the country. They're about 50 years behind. Times change so fast you have to go with it. For the older peoples' sake, it should have been passed by all means. The time when they can save for medical expenses is past long ago.

Edward B. Clay, Philadelphia, research administrator: I think the matter needs our continued attention until we can work out a satisfactory solution. The cost of medical care is becoming increasingly hard to bear, not only from the oldster's point of view but from the breadwinner's point of view. It's not just care for the aged we are concerned with but the vast working population supporting elderly persons now or in the foreseeable future. They are concerned with this problem.

Walter Rodefeld, Washington Road, upholsterer, Skillman Furniture: I think it should have been passed. I think we should use this country's wealth to take care of its older citizens first before we send it overseas to help support countries like Poland which is supposed to be Communistic. That's the same as spending money to help heat ourselves.

Mrs. Alfred Van Zandt, Blawenburg, housewife: I'm glad it was defeated. I feel we don't need government control of everything. We're getting too much of it now, as it is.

Mrs. Madison Breier, Lakeside Apartments, housewife: I think it is a terrible shame. We really need a bill like that because there are so many people whose income can't afford this kind of help. It was a close thing. I hope it comes up again and if it ever comes to a popular vote, I know I'll vote for it.

Mrs. Stewart Frisbie, 151 Clover Lane, housewife: I'm glad it was defeated. I say let's stay as far away from socialism as we can.

Harry Ireland, Clifton, auditor: I would say it lowers Kennedy's reputation among everyone, even his fellow Democrats. I was opposed to the bill myself. I think people should provide for their own medical care. In the case of needy cases or where a major expense was involved, I think welfare agencies in the past have moved in and helped out. New York City has its Bellevue Hospital, for example. I think it would lead to a lot of abuses of the type that plagues Blue Cross.

Ten Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS, July 24, 1952: In a small wooden hut at the southern end of Springdale Road, round-the-clock shifts of volunteers returned to a familiar job: air-spotting. With the Korean war at its height, and the tide sometimes turning against the embattled UN forces, word came from Washington that 24-hour civilian observation of all planes was essential to the national security.

Originally scheduled to start in May, the Ground Observer Corps was not activated until mid-July because of a shortage of volunteers — not so much here in Princeton but in other sections of the 26-state area designated by Washington to serve. Resuming guidance of the project he had helped direct during World War II was Hayward Greenland of "Journey's End."

Also making news on a round-the-clock basis was the new Chambers Street parking lot, which was scheduled to operate on metered parking 24-hours a day. The over-night car-owner's problem: since ten hours was the longest time that might be bought on a meter, those leaving their automobiles at 6 p.m. would have to return by 4 a.m. to keep the meters from expiring. (Note: the ordinance has since been amended, and overnight parking is no longer permitted.)

Ground was broken for the Princeton Shopping Center, for which Bamberger's had been announced as the major tenant. Approximately 120,000 cubic yards of dirt were to be excavated, and Theodore R. Potts, developer, reported this to be three times the amount of dirt removed when the foundations for the Firestone Library were laid.

Two well-known Princetonians retired: Harry B. Hutchinson completed a career of 53 years with the Princeton Water Co. (from office boy to secretary-treasurer) and Miss Ella Johnston rounded out 32 years as a Visiting Nurse for the Social Service Bureau.

When Mr. Hutchinson went to work for the Water Co., its office was in University Hall, a large wooden structure that stood at the corner of University Place and Nassau Street. The date: September 1, 1898.

Fire of major proportions destroyed a number of buildings on the old Philip Cortelyou Farm on Ten Mile Run, three miles north of Kingston. Operated by Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Minis, the farm had 240 linear feet of its buildings destroyed, together with equipment, much feed, fertilizer and a complete crop of hay.

Saved were all livestock and rolling machinery, with hundreds of men from a dozen different volunteer companies in the area and 17 engines and pumpers battling the blaze. One veteran fire-fighter told Mrs. Minis: "I've been at this sort of work for 35 years, and I never saw a hotter fire than this one."

The Democratic National Convention was about to get under way in Chicago, with President Truman seeking to hand-pick his successor . . . hats in the ring included those of Estes Kefauver and Averell Harrimao, and, less prominently at the outset, that of Princeton alumous Adlai Stevenson.

Polio struck at Princeton, with three children 7 and 8 years of age admitted to Princeton Hospital . . . fire destroyed office equipment and records at the real estate office of Skillman & Skillman, 247 Nassau Street.

George P. Cahill was named commander of Princeton Post 76, American Legion . . . the 307th Field Artillery Battalion returned from two weeks at Camp Drum, N. Y., with Lt. Col. Sterling H. Anders as its commanding officer; Capt. George R. Bishop, training and operations officer; Capt. Frank T. Gorman and Lieut. Robert H. Porter, battery commanders.

Melvyn Douglas was due at the McCarter's often steamy strawhat season in a new play "Season for Ginger," following Luise Rainer in S. N. Behrman's "Biography," which had been one of the theatre's early plays 20 years ago . . . at the Playhouse was Walt Disney's "Robin Hood," all-live, no-animation and the third such production since the Douglas Fairbanks original of the '20's.

In sports, John Gurley won the men's singles title in the summer tennis tournaments, while Stan Smoyer and Caryl Bigelow were in process of defending their doubles championship . . . leaders in the various softball leagues were the Nassau Social Club, the Cerezinos and Kings Inn.

It was summer, and the usual run of odd-ball developments was at hand: In Trenton, a man wanted by police was spotted when he went to sleep in a telephone booth; in Flemington, new pumps were installed to increase water pressure, did so as pipes and mains burst all over town; and on the Pennsylvania railroad, a passenger found the windows were cleaner than he'd thought when he put his head through one that wasn't open.

PARKING LOT VICTIM: Making way for a new parking lot is this old house which fronted on Alexander Street and provided living quarters for the overflow employees of the Princeton Inn. All Inn employees have been lodged in a new brick dormitory just completed and located to the rear of the home being demolished. (Staff Photo)

Dear Travelex,

It's been a long time since we've had a quiz and, while we're going through the Louvre, it might be a good time to have another. True or False???

1. The Venus de Milo is in the Louvre.

2. Some of the foundations of the Louvre were built as long ago as 1215.

3. The Gallery of Apollo is 200 feet long.

4. A German family gave the Louvre a collection worth $4,000,000.

5. This collection is housed in a small room that has been decorated at a cost of $50,000.

6. There are 2,500 pictures in the Louvre.

7. There are 3,000 ancient sculptures in the Louvre.

8. Six rooms are filled with antiquities from Assyria and Phoenicia.

9. There are five rooms filled with treasures from the Middle Ages that were rescued from churches during the French Revolution.

See you next week.

Nancy

STUDENTS SET TO WORK

At Princeton Hospital. Twelve students are spending their vacations at Princeton Hospital as summer relief employees. Seven of them took part in the program last year.

Returnees are Joslin Cook, 581 Lake Drive, a sophomore at Hood College; Jack G. Copeland, III, 61 Overbrook Drive, a junior in the pre-medical course at Stanford University; Ralph Stroup, 111 Jefferson Road, now in his second year at the University of Rochester School of Medicine; Thomas Wilson, 225 Jefferson Road, a student at Princeton High School; Theodore H. Kennedy, Jr., 129 Birch Avenue, a junior at the Agricultural and Technical College, Greensboro, N. C., and twins Alicia and Elsie Spinner, 28 Wilton Street. Alicia is a student at Trenton Junior College, and Elsie is attending Drew University.

The young women are serving as nurses aides. Mr. Copeland is a summer orderly; Mr. Stroup is a summer laboratory technician; Mr. Kennedy is working in the laundry department, and Mr. Wilson is serving in the maintenance department.

Newcomers to the summer program are Sandra Cook, 242 Prospect Avenue, a student at Princeton High School; Mary Siverd, 37 Hun Road, a senior at Boston College School of Nursing; Barbara Konover, 13 Patton Avenue, sophomore at the University of Wisconsin; Anne Libby, 20 Vandeventer Avenue, sophomore at Russell Sage College; and Charles Ricciardelli, Trenton, a pre-medical student at St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia.

Prof. and Mrs. Sidney Ratner of 11 Cleveland Lane and their son, Jonathan, have just returned from a five-weeks' trip to Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Hawaii. Dr. Ratner researched on World War II Japan and interviewed various high government officials. He also lectured at the University of Tokyo on "Pragmatism In America."

Paul L. Nergaard of 11 Roilingmead is currently studying at Union Junior College's annual summer session. The six-week program will conclude August 3.

Malcolm Crooks, executive director of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association ,is attending a two-week seminar on "City and Regional Planning" at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The seminar is designed to keep the association "abreast of the latest ideas in planning and well-grounded in planning principles," said Paul VanWegen, president.

The Rev. David H. McAlpin, Jr., of 199 Laurel Circle, and Mrs. Frances W. Nelson of 147 Birch Avenue are attending a one-week workshop on "Community Leadership in Intergroup Relations" at the summer session of Rutgers University.

The Rev. Mr. McAlpin is assistant pastor of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Nelson is a management aide with the Princeton Housing Authority. Fifty persons are attending the workshop.

Miss Melissa Rightmire has been named to the Dean's List at William Smith College, Geneva, N. Y., for the second semester of her freshman year. Miss Rightmire, a Princeton High School graduate, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rightmire of Canal Road, Griggstown.

John F. Bates, III, has been awarded a varsity letter as a member of the Princeton University track team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Bales, 69 Laurel Road.

Nixon W. Hare has been elected captain of the soccer team, president of the Athletic Association, vice-president of his class and chairman of the Student Council at the Choate School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Waln Hare. Former residents of Princeton, they are now living in Shawnee Mission, Kansas.

Gregory R. Farrell of Pyne Hall is attending the Urban Studies Center of Rutgers University. Mr. Farrell, administrative assistant in the Princeton University Admissions Office, will take courses and complete a major research paper on some aspect of urban affairs while at the State University next academic year.

His fellowship has been arranged in association with the Trenton Times whose reportorial staff he will join upon completion of his studies.

Romeo Favreau and R. Kenyon Kithon have been named to the public relations committee of the New Jersey Council for Research and Development. The purpose of the council is to define and study the problems facing research and development in New Jersey, and to promote and recommend methods for facilitating the growth of research and development.

Mr. Favreau, whose home is at 531 Lake Drive, has held positions as director of the Princeton Computation Center, director of the computation division and vice-president of Electronic Associates, Inc. He is also vice-president of the International Association for Analog Computation.

Mr. Kilbon, 219 State Road, has been with RCA since 1954. A member of the National Association of Science Writers, he was administrator of public relations for RCA. He is now editor of Research and Engineering Information for RCA.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Pehta of 74 Grover Avenue were among the 1,270 delegates at the 45th international convention of the Lutheran Laymen's League in Portland, Ore.

R. Braddock Dinsmore of Provident Mutual Life and Kal H. R. Soderman of New York Life attended the annual meetiog of the Million Dollar Round Table, international organization of top life insurance salesmen, at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal, Canada. Mr. Dinsmore lives on the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road and Mr. Soderman at 439 Terhune Road.

Douglas Gurin, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gurin of 14 Windsor Drive, Princeton Junction, is working for the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association. He will collect flood data for the Millstone River and its tributaries and will also do map reproductions for the projects under way which require such data.

Prevent Ear Infections

Members of the ear, nose and throat and pediatric staffs of Princeton Hospital have issued a warning to parents to take precautions against possible ear infections by proper care after swimming.

With the swimming season now at its height, such infections often develop in ears which have not been properly dried after swimming. To prevent such infections, physicians recommend that eight drops of alcohol be placed in each ear after swimming with an eyedropper inserted just inside the ear canal. Parents are advised not to put alcohol in ears which are painful or running. Ear plugs are not advised.

Topics Of The Town

Fund, according to Walter Fulham, chairman of the Camping Services Committee.

The World Service Program is a project held annually by Y's throughout North America. In Princeton, some 85 boys and girls voluntarily surrendered their own toys and games to be used as prizes in th eight different booths.

CHAIRMAN APPOINTED

For Fund Drive. Albert Toto has been appointed chairman of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad's annual fund drive.

Serving on the committee with Mr. Toto are Raymond Rodweller, William Parke, Norman Fowler, G. DeWitt Boice and the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad's Ladies Auxiliary.

CELEBRATION PLANNED

For Lambertville House. Lambertville House, once an old stage coach tavern, will celebrate its 150th anniversary on Saturday.

Events for the day will include a parade of antique vehicles, four bands and a drum majorette corps, to be reviewed by Governor Hughes; an exhibit of old letters from Senator John Lambert, for whom the town was named; a program of speeches in front of the hotel; and a reception in the hotel's three dining rooms for 1500 invited guests.

The celebration will be the largest in the town since its own centennial anniversary in 1949. Shop windows in Lambertville feature a display of antiques and other curiosities connected with the town's colorful and historic past.

QUALIFIERS NAMED

At YMCA Camp. The Princeton YMCA has announced the names of 39 campers who have completed their "minnow" qualification test. The following boys and girls have completed 21 tests during the first and second period of camp: Borden Putnam, Joe Guinn, Jim Ward, Karen Gordon, David Ron, Aaron Katz, Charles Eubank, Susan Rosenblum, Robin Steward, Monty Schley, [illegible]

Lab Complex Planned

Four modern, steel and glass laboratory buildings surrounding a central court covered by a loggia are scheduled for construction at Princessville Research Park on the Princeton Pike.

Leases are currently under negotiation for occupancy by two companies in the business machine and chemical industries, the creators of the park, Canaveral-Princeton Lands, Inc., said. The structures will provide 80,000 square feet of research space.

Construction will be carried out by the commercial division of Amron Builders, Inc., of Cranbury. A research laboratory for Union Bag-Camp Paper Corp. is currently being built on a 33-acre site in the development.

AGENCY REORGANIZED

New Staffs, Ownership. The Belle Mead Real Estate Agency, Station Square, Belle Mead, has changed ownership and reorganized its staff. Its range of operations will include Mercer, Somerset and Hunterdon Counties.

Frederic T. Skillman, II, of Skillman has been elected president of the corporation. Edward M. Crawford is vice-president and broker of record. Mrs. Jeanne M. Miller and Bernard L. Dafter will be directors of published and outdoor advertising, respectively. Mrs. Vivian B. Lindquist will have charge of office procedures.

Mr. Skillman is a lifelong area resident and has been active in real estate for several years. He attended Hope College, Holland, Mich., and Rider College.

Mr. Crawford, also a lifelong resident of the area, has been involved in real estate in and around Princeton since 1939. He will supervise all phases of the real estate business conducted by the agency.

The new management is planning expansion of its present business to include more of the surrounding area, with Hunterdon County assuming top priority.

SIX FIRMS MERGE

In Business Supplies Corp. Six firms have formed Business Supplies Corporation of America here. The merging companies are Tabulating Card, Data Processing Accessories, Whiting Stationery, Data Processing Supplies, American Business Machines and Data Processing Service.

Each firm will be a separate division of the parent company, which is planning further diversification. The tabulating card manufacturing and card machinery plants are in Princeton. The company has plants for other operations in 15 cities from Boston to San Francisco.

The principals in the new company are Clement V. Conole of Bryn Mawr, Pa., and L. Stanley Crandall of Greenwich, Conn. Mr. Conole is chairman of the board. His son, Richard C. Conole of Skytop, Pa., is president.

Mr. Crandall was an executive of International Business Machines Corporation for 26 years. Mr. Conole has been chairman of the board of both Whiting and Tabulating Card for the past three years. His son is an industrial engineer

RCA SETS RECORDS

In Profits, Sales. Radio Corporation of America's profits and sales during the first half of 1962 were all-time highs, it has been announced by the company.

Profits after taxes for the first six months of 1962 were $24,000,000, an increase of 36 percent over the $17,600,000 figure recorded during the same period last year. Sales were $854,000,000, up 18 percent over the $722,000,000 volume for the same period in 1961.

CHAMBER INSURES 134

Under Group Plan. The Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council has announced that 134 members are presently insured under a "Loss of Income" group insurance plan.

The plan guarantees a certain monthly income, up to $40, for five years of sickness or life-time accident. More than $6,000 in claims have been paid since the plan's inception.

UHL JOINS ORC

From Benson and Benson. Jerome W. Uhl, formerly a research project director at Benson and Benson, Inc., has joined the research staff of Opinion Research Corporation as an associate survey director.

Mr. Uhl, who lives at 31 Tamara Drive, Roosevelt, received a bachelor of science degree in marketing and a master of business administration degree from Indiana University. He is a member of the American Marketing Association and Beta Gamma Sigma, national business honorary fraternity.

RISKIN ON STAFF

Of Computer Analysts. Bernard N. Riskin, a founder of Applied Data Research, Inc., has joined the staff of National Computer Analysts, Inc., as a project engineer.

Since 1951 Mr. Riskin has also been associated with Remington Rand UNIVAC, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Computer Laboratory and the C & O Railroad. He was graduated from Temple University and studied data processing at Harvard.

daily pablum. It was a challenge to our native choirs.

"Not that the voices as such are in any way exceptional, in fact, the tone lacked brightness and rotundity, but this was the only point to criticize in an otherwise splendid performance. The choir sang without music, but seemed all the more assured for that, showing a perfect understanding of the esoteric, half-mystical character of the cantatas, doing full justice to the intricate fragmentary texture of Webern's choral sounds, and observing the many dynamic nuances to a nicety.

Moreover their German diction was exemplary. Miss Marcia Ramsey sang the soprano role in the first cantata with the uncanny certainty of a sleepwalker, and negotiated the soft high notes with a seemingly effortless ease. The two movements for baritone in the second cantata were rendered by Mr. Durant Robertson with the right blend of subtlety and vigorous thrust.

"The concert ended with Bach's Magnificat in D, for which the comparatively small size of the choir was ideal. Details of phrasing came over with great clarity and point.

All three works were unfortunately performed with piano accompaniment, but Mathilde McKinney did her utmost to reconcile us to the makeshift arrangement."

works. This formed the basis for an entirely natural and unforced expressiveness, the rarest thing to hamming the music absentmindedly.

"The final vindication of the notorious skips and leaps in Webern's vocal writing was provided by the soprano soloist, Marcia Ramsey. Seemingly oblivious of the excruciating difficulties, she brought to her part a moving simplicity as if she were singing folk melodies.

"Bach's 'Magnificat' too, was done with great purity of soul and intonation."

London: The Times, July 10.

"The Princeton High School Choir, United States, under its conductor, Mr. Thomas Hilbish, gave a concert at the Royal College of Music yesterday evening which included Webern's two late cantatas op. 29 and op. 31. The difficulties in texture, rhythm and intonation are well-nigh forbidding, but mirabile dictu, our American visitors sang the music as though it belonged to their

Coach Dick Colmon's Estimate of Princeton's 1962 Football Fortunes

"We look on the 1962 season with cautious optimism. This is because we have a large nucleus of returning veterans who should form the basis of our squad. These veterans will be bolstered by a group of promising sophomores. Because of our improved depth and returning experienced hands, we think Princeton will field a team somewhat stronger than last year's.

"Our chief problems revolve around center, where we are still seeking the two-way performer; end, which suffers the heaviest graduating losses, including All-Ivy Hank Large; and quarterback, where we are looking for someone to pair with senior John Henrich.

"Our backfield, aside from the blocking spot, is in fine shape. There is good depth and experience at all positions, especially the key tailback position where we are fortunate in having three battle-tested boys returning. The interior line situation is the best it has been in several years with a number of veteran guards and tackles on hand.

"It is too early to tell how much improved the other Ivy members will be. However, barring a raft of injuries such as hit us in mid-season last year, we expect to be in a contending position in 1962."

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK—III

(This is the third in a series of four articles on Princeton football prospects for 1962.)

Tigers Appear Solid. It's a long time before ticket applications close on November 15 for the Dartmouth game, but foresighted football fans will be sure the day does not get by them. If the Ivy League champion for 1962 is not decided by the game between Princeton and the invading Indians, a lot of football forecasters along the eastern seaboard will be vastly surprised.

Dartmouth finished the 1961 season going away, topping Yale, Cornell and Princeton in three of its last four games and developing the all-Ivy quarterback in Bill King. King and a number of other key players are returning to Hanover this fall, and the Green's potential, plus the coaching ability of Bob Blackman, led the sports publicity directors of the eight Ivy colleges to pick Dartmouth as the probable champion in a pre-season poll.

The choice for runner-up was Princeton, and the Tigers, too, have the material to back their high ranking. When a conservative coach such as Dick Colman admits to "cautious optimism," the foundation for a bright season has been firmly laid.

Even the brightest picture has flaws that must be polished, and Princeton will not arrive at its Blairstown training camp without awareness that a number of problems must be solved. The number one rating in this respect goes to center, a position that more often than not in recent years has furrowed the brows of the coaching staff.

Tailback Slot Loaded. Elsewhere, depth must be developed at end and at quarterback, but—always barring injuries—no other serious difficulty apparently exists. In all, there are 21 lettermen returning, seven of them starters—figures which contrast brightly with last year's: 12 returning lettermen and three starters.

Not only is the entire starting backfield ready to go again, with Captain Dan Terpack and tailback Greg Riley fully recovered from injuries which saw them miss much November action, but the benefits reaped from such attrition will now be paid. With Riley, and later Hugh MacMillan, benched by injury, and Terpack following them to the sidelines, reserves in this position are much more battle-tested.

For example, the Tigers start the 1962 season with no less than four lettermen at tailback, and two better-than-average sophomores in reserve. Terpack and Jim Rockenback (again with two good sophomores in the wings) give Princeton a stronger one-two punch at wingback than it has had since Bob Unger, Bill Kleinsasser and Dick Pivorotto played there more than ten years ago.

In the interior line positions, too, there is more ability and depth than the Tigers have been able to count in some seasons. Actually, they can start a letterman at every position, but Bill Howard — who missed too much action last fall to earn a letter—has the pre-season nod over the veteran Dan Phillips at right end.

By positions, this is the Princeton picture for 1962:

Ends: Barry Schuman (6-3, 190) and Bill Howard (6-4, 210) will give Princeton a pair of pass receivers without peer in the league. Schuman missed the final two games of the 1961 season with an injury but still won a place on the second All-Ivy eleven. Howard was out for the last six games but a knee operation has put him back in shape, and both he and Schuman will be solid two-way players. Behind Schuman will probably be the pick of the sophomores, 6-1, 180-lb. Dick Batcheller, while letterman Dan Phillips (6-2, 185) and another good sophomore, Kit Lawrence, (6-3, 195) will replace Howard. Injuries here, at the position hardest hit by graduation, could make trouble for the Tigers.

Tackles: All three players who started on the left side of the line at this position are back, another indication of the unusual depth Princeton will have in 1962. Ready and able are Ed Costello (6-0, 210), who broke into the starting lineup last fall as a sophomore; Stan Schainker (6-2, 210), who put in a good year as a junior immediately behind Costello; and Bill Wright, at 6-4, 225 the biggest man on the squad. But watch for Ernie Pascarella, a 6-1, 220-lb sophomore who figures to have the ability to push one or more of the trio of veterans aside. Pascarella ranks as one of the top tackle prospects here in several years.

The other tackle slot lacks depth, after letterman Arlyn Lichhardt whose unusual speed compensates for a relatively light frame (6-1, 190.) A 220-lb. senior, John Highland, who has yet to earn his letter, and a 210-lb. sophomore, Wendall Cady, are the best bets to come along here.

Guards: Well fortified on both sides of the center, giving Princeton more strength here than at any time since the bright days of the early '50's. The likely starters will be Dick Lemkin (5-11, 190), a standout reserve who has been a bearcat on defense for two seasons, and Tim Callard, whom Dick Colman calls the best two-way guard at Princeton in the post-war years. Behind Lemkin, the sawed-off, ruggedly-built Tony DiVincenzo (5-9, 200); behind Callard, Bill Barbour (5-10, 180), pride of Yazoo City, Miss.

Bill Guedel, who captained the 1961 freshman team was ineligible last year, comes to the varsity with considerable promise. Sophomores who help make this a position that will give opposing teams constant trouble this season are Don Pett (5-10, 200), Ned Porter, (6-1, 195) and Ron Bonomo (5-10, 190.) Watch Bonomo's development in particular.

Center: Bob Burruss (5-11, 180) will be over the ball on offense, sharing the duties with Bruce Hartman (5-10, 180), who was just beginning to impress when an early-October injury shelved him for the season. Al Sweeson (5-11, 195) will spell them as a linebacker, while sophomores Mike Smith (5-11, 190) and Bob Duncan (6-1, 210) will also see action. The search here is

Tips on building, using and enjoying a handsome redwood deck

Deck is an extra room: If you need additional sleeping space, a deck obviously is not the answer. But if your family simply wants more living space, this may be a surprisingly effective, economical solution. The cost: about $2 a square foot overall for a redwood deck, compared to $10 and up per square foot for an extra room. A deck will add just as much resale value to your home as an extra room.

Deck as a paved patio: Outdoor living rooms can be created with other flooring materials, besides redwood. Redwood, however, has many advantages. Redwood never gets as hot, or as cold, to the touch, as concrete. There is no drainage problem with redwood. It will dry out more quickly than concrete or brick, and provide a clean and dry place for children to play outdoors during the rainy season. A redwood deck eliminates the necessity of levelling the site. On fairly steep or uneven lots, this is costly (or backbreaking). On steeper lots, it is impossible.

for a two-way player—otherwise, the substitution process interferes with any "wild card" procedure the coaching staff may have in mind.

Wingbacks. Captain Dan Terpack (5-9, 165) is, pound for pound, the best player in the league and rates in Dick Colman's book as the best wingback Princeton has had since George Sella. Speed, ball carrying ability, fine blocking despite his size and great diagnostic sense on defense are all attributes to which this Wilkes-Barre resident can lay claim.

Jim Rockenbach, his immediate replacement, also has picturesque ability—the 18 points for which he accounted against Columbia playing the major share in the Tigers' upset of a very strong Lion outfit. Despite Terpack's major contributions, Princeton gives away very little when Rockenbach takes over for him. Sophomores Doug Tufts (5-9, 160) and Tony Krausen (5-10, 170) are good but will see little action in their first year with this pair of veterans on hand.

Quarterbacks: A two-year veteran is about to take his place with George Chandler and Jack Sapoch, who called signals for the Tigers for three years apiece. He is the burly John Henrich (6-1, 205), whose great blocking is responsible for much of the sizeable yardage gained by the ball carriers in the past two seasons.

Henrich has started all 18 games of his varsity career, but even the most durable player must be spelled, and one of the 1962 questions is by whom? Dick Springs, who ran 1964 as freshmen, and sophomores Don Roth and Bob Norton are the principal choices, but until one of them comes along as Penn Laird did last fall, the Tigers may have a replacement problem here.

Fullbacks: Bill Merlini (5-11, 205) developed well in his junior year as both a ball carrier and blocking back, although he lacked top ability on the Tigers' favorite wedge play. He has the mind, but how long can he hold it over a player with Cosmo Iacavazzi's potential?

Cos (5-11, 195) has all the markings of as good a two-way fullback as Princeton has seen since the war. Classmate Roy Pizarello (5-8, 175) is hidden in the shadow of Iacavazzi's spotlight, but can be counted on whenever he gets the call. Letterman Dave Gouldin, who will do the placekicking, is a fourth fullback to provide extreme depth.

Tailbacks: Never since Charlie Caldwell first arrived on the scene in 1945 has Princeton opened a season with four lettermen at tailback. Greg Riley will have the starting berth, despite the others' ability, his 6-1, 175-lb. build providing a finely-balanced running and passing attack. Had he not been injured in the Brown game last year, the Tigers might not have lost two of their final three games.

Hugh MacMillan, (5-11, 185) a 9.7 man in the 100, progressed steadily as Riley's chief understudy until he, too, was benched by a shoulder injury for the last three games. Pete Poreitis (also 5-11, 185) gained much stature when he became the ranking tailback, and figures heavily in this year's plans despite his third-place listing on the depth chart.

Dave Ihbekin (5-10, 165) is the fourth letterman on tap, and must be wondering what he has to do to work his way up the ladder. And if all four stay injury-free, sophomores John O'Brien and Don McKay may wish they'd bought tickets when Saturday rolls around. The seats in the Stadium are a lot better than those on the bench.

Next Week: The Opposition

TENNIS GROUP CHOSEN

Needs For Courts Cited. Peter J. Morgan, head coach of track at Princeton University, has been named chairman of a Mercer County Citizen's Advisory Committee to study the need for additional facilities for tennis in the area.

The County Board of Freeholders proposed the creation of the committee. It is hoped that representatives of each of the county's 13 municipalities will be included on the group. The proposal also had the backing of the County Recreation Commission.

Freeholder Richard J. Coffee cited developments which he said had brought pressure by various tennis groups for additional facilities. He listed the closing of Trenton's Cadwallader Park courts and the fact that public tennis facilities have diminished in Mercer County over the last 20 years.

Coffee said the committee will be charged with the job of determining whether a shortage of tennis facilities truly exists, to what extent the County and municipalities should act to alleviate the situation and to make suggestions for a timetable for construction of tennis courts in the County.

LATE BUT WELCOME: After a year's ineligibility, Bill Guedel, 195-lb. junior, will be a candidate for guard on the 1962 Princeton football team.

MIXED DOUBLES WON

By Miss Shipway and Swartz. A 6-4, 6-2 triumph in the final round of the Mixed Doubles Tournament Saturday gave the 1962 title in that event to Miss Dede Shipway and Sandy Schwartz. Their opponents were Mrs. Linda Corlette and Bayard Jordan.

The winning team eliminated Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding and John Ferns, 6-2, 6-0, in the semi-finals and won their quarter-final match with the loss of only a single game from Mrs. Judy Wimberg and Dr. Milton White. The Corlette-Jordan entry won from Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Dumpel, 9-7, 7-5, in the semi-finals and from Elizabeth Kelley and John Mack, 8-6, 0-6, 7-5, in the quarter finals.

Other teams to reach the quarter-finals were Mrs. John O'Donoghue and James Johns, and Mrs. Peggy Bayer and J. B. Richardson. In all, there were 18 entries.

Men's Doubles play began this week. The final tournament of the season, Women's Doubles, will start Monday. Registrations may be made at the University Courts through Friday noon or at the YMCA through noon on Saturday.

ETS ADDS TO LEAD

By Defeating Runner-Up. A come-from-behind 10-7 triumph over its closest pursuer last week stretched the gap between first-place ETS and the seven teams chasing the defending champions in the Business Softball League.

Trailing by as much as 5-0 with the game more than half over, ETS rallied strongly to conquer Engineering Research Center. As a result, the losers dropped from second to third and Electro-Mechanical Research and Gulton Ortholog, both victorious, moved into a deadlock for the runner-up spot.

With two weeks of regularly-scheduled games, plus a few make-up contests remaining, five teams are battling for the three playoff spots behind ETS. Only Columbian Carbon and Opinion Research are mathematically eliminated.

A pair of early home runs by Ed Paulsen put ERC on the launching pad for a possible upset in its game with ETS. However, Jack Dilworth, the league's top pitcher with a 9-1 mark, steadied down, set his mates a solid example at the plate with a two-run homer and ETS gradually moved out in front. Bill Deboskey, Art Becker and Joe Patnick furnished valuable ammunition in the four-run fifth which sent ETS on its way.

Easy Win for EMR. Electro-Mechanical Research trounced last-place Opinion Research, 18 to 4, as Ralph Demeck collected four hits, one of them a homer. Jim Kerlin also hit for the distance, while winning pitcher Paul Crea banged out a pair of three-baggers. Joe Castora made three hits for ORC.

Gulton scored a run for every hit it made in coasting to an 11-3 decision over Industrial Reactor Lab. Ron Kline was the winning pitcher, getting good support from Frank Fava, Tom Curran and Art Eldridge. Extra-base blows by Will Reed and Jim Bennett drove in the losers' three runs.

After picking up a 7-0 forfeit game from Columbian Carbon, RCA Labs dropped a make-up game to Engineering Research, 6 to 5, in a game marked by fine fielding by both sides. RCA took a 3-1 lead into the top of the fourth, but the opposition drew even at 5-all in the next two rounds and then pushed across the deciding run on three straight singles by Ed Cole, Ed Paulsen and Don Machusek.

Paulsen paced the victors with three safeties and Don Musinski was the winning pitcher. Walt Reichert slammed a three-run homer for RCA, with Max Hopkins, Bob Arlett and Bob Nielsen also helping at the plate.

The standings:

HORSE SHOW SCHEDULED

In Hightstown. The Millstone Horse Show, scheduled for August 1 to 5 in Hightstown, is new on the Eastern circuit this year. It has been well received by all exhibitors, as over 400 horses will compete for the $15,000 in cash prizes and trophies.

The new Millstone Arena has a large indoor ring and excellent spectator facilities for the five-day event. Beginning at 9, classes will be held throughout the day with evening classes starting at 7:30. A recognized member of the American Horse Shows Association, the show will offer classes for hunters, jumpers, three-gaited, five-gaited, fine harness horses, parade horses, Appaloosas, western horses and a full session on Sunday devoted to the Quarter Horse.

Horses entered from this area include the new quarter horse, Bridgett McCue, exhibited by J. G. Hill, II, Hopewell, and the well-known parade contender, Highland's Glory of Undalata, owned by Miss Evelyn Sharp of Trenton. Charles Gregg, Jr., also of Trenton, will show his 2-year old Apaloosa stallion, Weichert's Little Prince. Hope Farm in Belle Mead, owned by the Eugene Ness family, will show the three-gaited mare, Captain's Carnation, and the fine harness entry, Fable's Flirt.

The Glenburn Valley Farm, Princeton, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon W. Spencer, has entered the champion five-gaited gelding, Flare Up, recent winner of the Ladies Gaited Class at Devon, and Gloria Sea, three-gaited mare who just won the Ladies Three-Gaited Class at Devon.

They will also show their junior mare, Ensign's Fashion Ellen and Carol Spencer will compete in the children's division in equitation aboard their mounts, Even Better and Glenburn's Delight.

The Millstone Show Grounds are located just 4 miles from the New Jersey Turnpike exit 8 in Hightstown. Facilities include a cafeteria and a snack bar. A special feature for children under 12 will be a coloring contest and the winner will receive a pony.

IVY WINS PAIR

In Trenton League. The up-and-down Ivy Inn is up again, having won its last three games after losing five in a row in the Trenton Fast-Pitch Softball League. A come-from-behind 9-6 victory over Lit Brothers Friday and a lopsided, 17-0 shutout over Liedtka Fuel Oil earlier last week increased the Inn's record to 10-8.

Three solo home runs powered by Kenny Luck, Bobby Cook and Bill Murphy enabled the Inn to overcome Lit Brothers who had taken a 3-2 lead early in the game. Luck's homer was his seventh and he now leads the league in that department. Jake Bartolino also chipped in with a triple for one of the Inn's seven hits. Cook got credit for the win.

Bobby also went all the way against Liedtka Fuel Oil, giving up only four hits for his first shutout. He got more than enough support from his teammates who rapped the losers for 12 hits and 17 runs. Included in the barrage were Luck's homer with one on in the second inning and Cook's lead-off four-bagger in the third. Luck, Cook, Jack Petrone and Bartolino each had two hits for Ivy.

The Inn won it in the first inning, when it scored four runs on a walk, Bob Kehoe's double, and single by Cook and Bill Murphy. The victors added a pair in the second frame, seven in the third, three more in the fifth and a single tally in the sixth. It was their largest run production of the year.

Earlier, the Inn had broken a five-game losing streak by putting together two four-run innings to defeat Capitol Sportsmen, 9-6. The winners collected their first quartet of tallies in the second inning on three walks, Kehoe's double and a single by Bob Chambers. In the fourth frame, three costly Capitol errors and a double by Cook were good for four more runs Ivy was outhit by the losers, 6-5.

Thus the Inn appears now to be back in the swing of things

COMMITTEE HEAD: Peter J. Morgan, head coach of track at Princeton University, is chairman of a Mercer County Citizens' Advisory Committee that will study the need for additional tennis courts in the area.

After winning seven of its first ten, the club lost five straight to drop into the second division. The reason for the rapid decline was not hard to trace.

Harry Kahny, the team's standout pitcher, hurt his arm June 21 and has not thrown since. Harry, who had been averaging 10 strikeouts per game and had a no-hitter and a one-hitter to his credit this season, is hard to replace. He will be out the remainder of the season.

BOWERS WIDENS MARGIN

In YMCA Junior League. Bowers won a pair of games last week to increase its lead in the YMCA Junior Baseball League. The leaders defeated Matthews, 10-2 and Nassau Oil, 13-7, to raise their record to 5-2.

In second place with identical 3-2 records are Nassau Oil and Matthews. Nassau Oil defeated Water Company, 20-6, in action last week and Matthews edged the same team, 6-5. Water Company is winless in five starts.

Games this week and next: Matthews vs. Bowers, Thursday; Nassau Oil vs. Water Company, Friday; Water Company vs. Matthews, Monday, and Bowers vs. Nassau Oil, Tuesday. All games are played at the Princeton High School field, starting at 6:15.

UPSET REGISTERED

In Summer Basketball Play. An upset was produced last week when the Bronco defeated the Wildcats, 42-40, in the Princeton YMCA Basketball League on the Harrison Playground court. In the other league contests, the Bombers remained undefeated after the second week of play by defeating the Jets, 57-38.

The Bronco, 82-37 victims of the Bombers last week, looked like a different team as they hit on their shots early in the game and made few mistakes to take a 26-18 half-time lead. The Wildcats tried to narrow the margin but their bid was frustrated time and again by key Bronc baskets. Ted Meridith led the winners with 20 points.

Once again, the Bombers displayed a well-balanced attack in notching their second straight victory. Ray Cevera set the pace with 20 points, followed by Bob Gianetti and Tom Jones, who hit for 12 and 11, respectively. Hank Schmidt's 16 was high for the losers.

The leading scorers after two weeks of play include Meridith, 38 points; Cevera, 37; Jones, 29; Gianetti, 28; and Schmidt, 26. The team captains, selected Wednesday are John Fitzpatrick, Bombers; Ted Meridith, Bronc; Bill Stryker, Wildcats, and Fitz James, Jets.

Two games are played every Wednesday evening at the Harrison Street court, starting at 6:15. The public is invited.

COUNTY TOURNEY SET

For Junior Tennis Players. The Mercer County Junior Tennis Tournament is scheduled for August 6 through 10 on the Lawrenceville School courts. Officially sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, it will have six separate divisions so that younger players will be encouraged to enter.

The divisions will be 18, 14 and 12 for boys and girls. All area players are welcome to participate.

The committee for the tournament consists of Donn West, Lawrenceville; Dan Haggerty, Trenton; and Mrs. Lewis Kraft, Princeton, co-chairmen; Bernard Forer, Trenton and Norman Van Arsdalen, Princeton, vice-chairmen. In charge of registration and finance are William Humes and Jess Epstein, both of Princeton. Randy Lindhurst of Trenton is publicity chairman. Chairmen of the Umpires Committee are Bayard Jordan, Princeton, and Haggerty Joe Jingoli, Trenton, and Chuck Waeaton, Lawrenceville, are on the arrangements committee.

During the week long event, there will be a clinic with Swarthmore coach Ed Faulkner on Tuesday morning. Entry blanks may be obtained from William Humes, 312 Ewing Street, WA 1-9167.

SWIM MEET TO BE HELD

At YMCA. The first annual Summer Swim Club Championship will be held Saturday, July 28, and Saturday, August 4.

According to George W. Good, chairman of the YMCA Flying Fish Club which will sponsor the event, the championships will be open to all swim clubs. The two meets will be conducted at the Y pool with the boys' team competition scheduled for July 28 and girls' team competition on August 4.

News Of The CHURCHES

CHURCHES' PARLAY SET

Mrs. Harbison To Serve. Leaders of four major denominations will take another exploratory step towards church union at a conference scheduled for next March 19-21 in Oberlin, Ohio.

The decision was made by representatives of the Protestant Episcopal Church, the United Church of Christ, the Methodist Church and the United Presbyterian Church who gathered at Princeton Theological Seminary for a meeting of the Executive Committee on Consultation. Mrs. E. Harris Harbison of 12 Edgehill Street was named to the four-man sub-committee on information.

Members of Executive Committee present were: the Rev. Eugene C. Blake, Stated Clerk of the United Presbyterian Church; the Rev. David G. Colwell, chairman of the delegation from the United Church of Christ; the Right Rev. Robert F. Gibson, Jr., Protestant Episcopal delegation chairman; the Rev. Norman A. Trott, president of the Methodists' Wesley Theological Seminary; and the Rev. George L. Hunt, executive secretary, minister of the United Presbyterian Church. President James I. McCord, a representative of the United Presbyterians, presided.

Mrs. Harbison, who has served as an associate editor of "Presbyterian Life," for the past three years, is most enthusiastic about the negotiations towards union. "I'm very much impressed by the ridiculousness of the differences between the Protestants," she commented. "I'm in favor of union, without sacrificing anything essential to the denominations."

In all, four sub-committees were appointed, each of which includes a representative from the four deaominations. The sub-committees are: Committee on Scripture and Tradition, Commitee on Church Government and Practice; Committee on the Church's Worship and Service; and the Standing Committee on Information. The first three subcommittees will study and report on a series of exploratory papers to be written by church scholars prior to the conference.

The Information group, Mrs. Harbison believes, will work to interpret the issues and possible solutions. "Church union isn't something that will happen in a hurry. The Oberlin consultation won't result in union right away. But we will hope to help the different churches know each other better as a step in the right direction.

"We hope to get people to local churches better acquainted. The United Church of Christ has a lot of experience in this area. We can learn a lot from them."

Mrs. Harbison, the only womao on the Presbyterian delegation, is chairman of the Worship and Spiritual Life Committee of Second Presbyterian Church. A national board member of the YWCA for 12 years, she is now a member of the YWCA World Council.

HARVEST HOME PLANNED

Time-Honored Custom. Harlingen Reformed Church will hold its traditional harvest home at 4:30 Saturday.

Records of the church note that a "harvest home celebration" was held in the woods near the church on August 23, 1851, proceeds of which were to go towards the furnishing of the church.

The 1962 summer, served family style, will include many delicacies such as homemade pressed chicken, baked ham and homemade cakes. There will also be a band concert, group singing, rides for the children and booths where flowers and various articles are sold.

George M. Pierson and William H. Labaw are co-chairmen, assisted by members of the congregation. Mrs. John H. Shinkos, in charge of reservations has announced that the 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. seatings are closed, but ample space is still available for the 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. tables. Reservations must be made by calling Mrs. Shinkos, 359-6122.

Music On the Program. J. Stuart Keefer will lead the Hamilton Square Band in concerts before and after dinner. There will be no charge and a guest accompaniat. The band, formed more than 30 years ago, performs at harvest homes during the summer months and gives concerts throughout the year. Victor Gazzi, of Calvary Baptist Church, Hamilton Square, will lead the group singing.

The committee has planned a fishpond for children, rides and a booth of children's games. For grownups there will be the coconut and fancy stands as well as flowers for sale.

Harlingen Reformed Church is located about 8 miles north of Princeton on Route 206.

BULLETIN NOTES

● A "Sharing Session" will be held by Calvary Baptist and First Baptist Churches at 8 p.m. Thursday. Demonstrations by the vacation church school will be followed by a reception. The gathering will be held at First Baptist Church. Church school teachers were Mrs. Nancy Coker, Mrs. Kenneth Dannenhauer, Miss Beatrice Gregory, Miss Ruth Hahn, Mrs. Olin McGowan, Mrs. Mary W. Smith and Carl Brown.

● A smorgasbord supper is scheduled for 4:30, August 4, by the Hopewell Methodist Church. Mrs. Ada Case and Miss Nora Haight, with others of the committee, have planned more than 20 dishes for gourmet sampling. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

REAL ESTATE

ASSORTED POTENTIAL BUYS

Majestic evergreens, inviting white brick house, secluded acre, fine West End area—an incomparable combination. House has an air of elegance yet manages to be cozy too. Departed owners' reluctance to have beloved home sit empty and unloved may mean a real bargain for a speedy buyer! Asking $83,000

Newish house, near-new condition. Extras: handsome over-sized family room, tucked-away den, pretty lot, safe but scenic brook. 3 bdrms. Commitments elsewhere by present owner could help someone "steal" this house! Asking $32,000

Princeton "country" ranch. Stunning living rm., 4 bdrms., 2½ baths. Dogwood-filled grounds. Neighbors are friendly but respect privacy too. Owner, tired of renting, finally wants to sell. In terms of location, space and construction, we think the price is remarkably fair. $42,000

Handsome stone home on highly desirable street. Bedrooms, fireplaces galore! Garage apartment, revivable tennis court, potentially gorgeous grounds of more than 1 acre. Modern kitchen. In need of decoration throughout but with the work done, the house will be a high-priced beauty. Asking $95,000

A nice assortment of houses in price ranges from $20,000 up

Don't Ask Builders Use A Sill Sealer?

We do — but we will let the others answer for themselves. A sill sealer, by the way, is a 4" wide strip of fiberglass insulation that goes between the top of the cinder block foundation wall and the bottom piece of lumber of the house frame. It prevents cold air from sneaking into your house.

Come to PRINCETON RIDGE in Rocky Hill and we will show you just where to look for our sill sealer. At the same time, walk through the 7, 8, and 9 room model homes for the other new ideas that all add up to bona fide home value. The models on Washington Street are pretty just to look at, too.

WANTED
A Putnam Pantry
Partner in Princeton

A challenging new career opportunity will soon be available in or near Princeton for a high caliber, energetic businessman (or husband and wife) who would like to become the co-owner manager of a highly profitable highway business establishment.

For many years we have been manufacturing-retailers of fine candies and ice cream at our centuries-old General Israel Putnam Birthplace in Danvers, Massachusetts. Now, bowing to insistent customer demands, we have decided to construct a very limited number of similar retail outlets throughout the country—one of which we will soon build in Princeton. This Colonial-style store will feature our famous old-fashioned chocolates and home-style candies, plus our (Trademarked) "Original Ice Cream Smorgasbord" which is receiving nation-wide acclaim.

The man we select in Princeton must be prepared (by himself or with associates) to match our substantial cash investment. He will be an equal partner with us in this business enterprise; he will be fully trained by us, receive a high-bracket salary as manager, and will share all profits equally with us.

Interested persons may arrange for a personal interview and conference in Princeton or Danvers by writing to:

in Lawrence Township

—amid towering oaks and pines,
majestic hickories and flowering white dogwoods
Hundreds of trees... and just 33 homes!

For over 35 years this land was a famous nursery. The soil is rich, the trees super-abundant, the terrain gently rolling, the elevation one of the highest in the state. And such wonderful neighbors! The towns of Princeton and Trenton within five minutes. The beautiful Green Acres golf course in the backyard. A new elementary school on the grounds. Fine, uncrowded schools for all grades within minutes.

One mile to the newly completed Lawrenceville Shopping Center. Its convenience is perfect! Its beauty a bonus! Come out today. You'll stay!

When a famous Princeton custom-builder comes to Lawrence... you're getting the same superior craftsmanship that has gone into $50,000 custom homes ...top grade materials, luxurious appointments, and the long experience and integrity of the builder.

Traditional styling... and a host of features usually found only in custom-built homes.
